GOP Platform To Avoid Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like the Democrats, the Republican party may draft a platform for the 1976 campaign that walks softly on the big issues.

With both President Ford and Ronald Reagan agreeing on most issues, one party official said that if there are any significant disputes, they likely would arise in the foreign policy area.

But a key objective in platform committee debates probably will be to avoid controversy in an effort to unite the Grand Old Party going into the fall presidential campaign.

The Democrats drafted a unity platform last week, and Gov. Robert Ray of Iowa, chairman of the temporary Republican platform committee, told reporters Monday that unity may be a good goal for the Republicans, too.

"We will start from the premise that the platform should be short, concise, but with enough detail to have meaning," he said.

Ray said both Ford and Reagan have said they will cooperate in drafting a platform to "avoid floor fights."

He said he thinks both men agree on most of the issues that the platform will address and that the "few items of disagreement," if any, would be in the area of international affairs.

Ray said potentially divisive issues such as abortion, busing and amnesty also will be considered by the platform committee.

"They are legitimate questions before the platform committee, but I can't tell you at this time whether they will be in the platform or not," he said.

He added, "We would like to avoid a floor fight if possible, ..." an indication he hopes that such issues would not be addressed in any detail that would arouse emotions within various party factions.

Drafting of the GOP platform will not begin until the week before the party's national convention in Kansas City in mid-August, and it will be subject to approval by the convention.

The party's temporary platform committee was holding public hearings here Monday and today. It held hearings in Los Angeles last week and will hold another hearing in Ames, Iowa, on Thursday.

Both Ford and Reagan will have representatives on the platform committee, and Ray promised to appoint subcommittee chairmen who will hear "both sides" in drafting a platform. Ray himself has endorsed Ford's bid for the party presidential nomination.

Industrial Powers Adopt Guidelines

PARIS (AP) — The United States and other non-Communist industrial powers have approved voluntary anti-corruption guidelines for multinational corporations.

The code of conduct, a direct result of the Lockheed scandals, was adopted Monday by 23 of the 24 members of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). Turkey abstained but it was not known why.

The code calls on corporations whose operations across national boundaries make them difficult to police not to offer bribes to public servants, to "abstain from any improper involvement in local political activities," to publish financial statements "and other pertinent information relating to the enterprise as a whole" at least once a year, and to "refrain from actions which would adversely affect competition."

The code also calls on multinationals to pay the correct amount of taxes in the countries in which profits are earned and to respect the right of employees to unionize and bargain collectively.

The code is aimed at encouraging "the positive contributions which multinational enterprises can make to economic and social progress and to minimize and resolve the difficulties to which their various operations may give rise," an OECD statement said.

"We don't claim we have solved all the problems, but we are certain we have made an important first step toward resolving the issue of multinational firms," said the current OECD chairman, Panayis Papaligouras of Greece.

There was no indication that any of the OECD governments might do anything in the way of laws to make the code legally binding. After the disclosures that the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and more than 30 U.S. firms had been making payoffs abroad to promote their business, President Ford in mid-April created a task force to recommend possible corrective action, but it has made no report yet.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, in a speech to the OECD meeting Monday, proposed that the Western industrial nations coordinate trade with the Soviet Bloc to build a stronger international economic system.

Kissinger said a coordinated approach would keep the Kremlin from using "selective political pressure" to play one country off against another."

Reds Fail To Overtake Italian Ruling Party

ROME (AP) — The Communists made strong gains in the Italian parliamentary elections but failed to overtake the Christian Democrats, who again missed a majority in the Chamber of Deputies by a sizable margin.

This set the stage today for renewed political uncertainty and another long crisis over the formation of a new Christian Democratic government. It also meant that action to ease Italy's grave economic crisis is a long way off.

Despite the prospect of continuing political and economic instability, the stock market and the lira rallied because of the Communists' failure to displace the Christian Democrats as the country's largest party.

Gains in early trading on the Milan stock exchange averaged 2.5 per cent while the lira rose from 854 to the dollar to 844-848. Then speculators took their gains, realization of the uncertain future overcame the initial enthusiasm, most blue chips closed below their Monday level, and the lira inched down to 848-850.

More than one out of three voters cast a Communist ballot in the elections Sunday and Monday for a new Chamber of Deputies, boosting the party from 27.2 per cent of the vote in 1972 to 34.6 per cent. The Vatican-backed Christian Democrats got 38.6 per cent, compared to 38.7 per cent four years ago.

This gave the Christian Democrats the chance to form their 35th government since World War II. But to get the parliamentary majority necessary for effective government, they needed to rebuild their center-left coalition with the Socialists, Social Democrats and Republicans which collapsed in January. And the Socialists said during the election campaign that the coalition was a dead issue.

Communist party secretary Enrico Berlinguer, surveying a sea of clenched fists and red flags below the balcony of his Rome headquarters, said the election result was "a great leap forward."

"We will have to deal with the Christian Democrats, and they will finally realize that they have to deal with us," he declared.

However, the Christian Democrats campaigned on a pledge to keep the Communists out of the government.

And Berlinguer ruled out "a head-on clash," saying: "The Communist party is not in a hurry to go into the government. It was not before. It is not now, even if it has obtained a big result."

There was no immediate comment on the election outcome from the U.S. government, which repeatedly warned that admission of the Communists to the government would endanger relations between the Italian and American governments and Italy's role in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. But the failure of the Communists to lead the voting undoubtedly was a relief for President

Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Final returns from the voting for the Chamber of Deputies gave the Christian Democrats 14.2 million votes, the Communists 12.6 million, the Socialists 3.5 million, the neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement (MSI) 2.2 million, the Democratic Socialists 1.2 million and the Republicans 1.1 million. Smaller parties and joint tickets divided the rest.

The Christian Democrats won 263 seats in the 630-seat chamber, a loss of three, and were 53 short of a majority. The Communists increased their standing from 179 seats to 227.

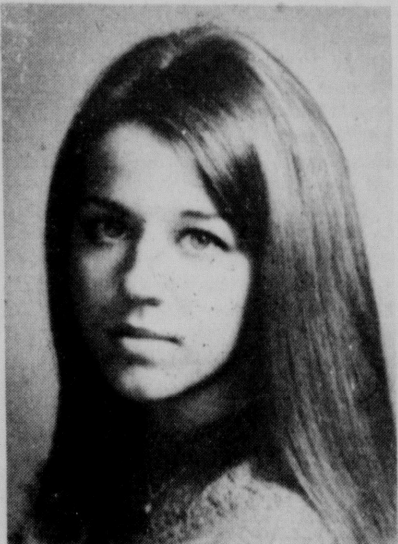

Ashville Unveils Its Flag

president of the Women's Civic Club; Marla Cook and Linda Gloyd, who submitted winning designs; Nolo Gulick, council president; and councilmen Marvin Hicks, Charles Morrison, Richard Cook, Gary Throp, and George Forquer.

A graphic interpretation of Ashville's famous traffic light was unveiled as the official symbol of the village.

BECKY BARR

The symbol, designed for use by the village about a year ago by Mrs. Dean Barr, was made into a flag by the Ashville Women's Civic Club and presented to village council Monday night.

The famous traffic signal is the center of the display. The flag also denotes that Ashville was founded in 1880.

It will be carried by the color guard at the head of Ashville's Fourth of July parades, and will be displayed at village functions.

Council asked the Women's Civic Club to create a village flag, expressly for use during the village's Centennial observance in 1980, but also for use during the nation's Bicentennial celebration.

Mrs. Betty Featheringham, president of the club, presented the flag to council president Nolo Gulick at the meeting.

Mrs. Evelyn Bastian was the club's Arts Chairman. Members of her committee were Mrs. Elwood Morrison, Mrs. Harry Margulis, Mrs. Curtis Cromley, Mrs. Wayne Pontious, and Mrs. Raymond Lindsey.

Mrs. Barr, an Ashville resident, is employed by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio in the Graphic Arts Department.

Two other young ladies who submitted excellent designs were Linda Gloyd and Marla Cook.

Miss Gloyd, a Teays Valley High School junior, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Gloyd Jr., Route 1, Ashville. Her design depicted the American Eagle symbol.

Miss Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cook, 351 Plum St., Ashville, submitted a colorful flag design.

The work of both girls was matted and framed by the club and presented to council.

In conjunction with caring for the flag, council members passed a motion 3-2 to refrain from smoking in the Municipal Building.

Other details of the village's annual Fourth of July celebration were discussed by council members, including a general clean-up of property, repair of the Madison St. crossing of the N & W Railroad, painting of restrooms and replacement of a urinal, and the possible paving of some park areas by the Ashville Community Club.

A petition to vacate Oak Alley between Butternut Alley and Scioto St. was accepted by council. Public notice of 60 days must be given before action can be taken.

Council also discussed the possibility of barricading the alley as unsafe for public transportation.

The next meeting of council will be 7 p.m. Friday, July 9.

Members present Monday were President Nolo Gulick, councilmen Richard Cook, Charles Morrison, Marvin Hicks, George Forquer, and Gary Throp, and clerk Raymond L. Lindsey.

Economist Expect No Inflation Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government economists expect no sharp divergence in the nation's inflation rate over the next few months, although they believe the pace of price increases will pick up before the year is over.

The Department of Labor comes out today with its report on consumer prices for May. Maynard Comiez, acting chief economist for the Commerce Department, said in an interview he expects the month's price increase to be in the range of April's jump of four-tenths of 1 per cent.

Economists generally are still sticking to forecasts of an increase of 6 per cent or so in consumer prices over the whole year. Since consumer prices have been going up at an annual rate in the neighborhood of 3 per cent so far this year, that means a pace will have to pick up eventually to hit the forecast.

Among the influences likely to be pushing prices up in the near future are food and fuel, the same items responsible for the increases of more than 10 per cent in some recent years.

Food prices jumped in April for the first time in four months and the Agriculture Department has reported that the prices received by farmers over the last two months have been going up. That means higher prices are in prospect eventually for pork, beef and other items, even if those increases don't show up at the consumer level in May.

Gasoline prices also are edging up now that motorists are traveling more and the government is gradually lifting controls on various petroleum products.

In the case of neither food nor fuel, however, is the pace of increase expected to be very sharp yet. Wholesale prices, whose movements roughly coincide with retail price movements, rose three-tenths of 1 per cent over-all in May, compared with an eight-tenths of 1 per cent increase in April.

There were also these economic developments Monday:

—The Federal Energy Administration told Congress that the price of home-heating oil will rise by four cents a gallon over the next 30 months regardless of federal price controls.

The FEA also said it sees no basis for fears that prices will rise sharply if controls are ended.

Unless either the House or Senate disapproves, controls on heating oil, diesel and other so-called middle distillates will end June 30.

FEA's predictions on prices were disputed by several witnesses.

—The Commerce Department reported that new orders received by manufacturers of durable goods recovered in May after a month of stagnation in April.

The department also said that the backlog of unfilled orders for durable goods rose in May, marking the first significant increase in the backlog since September 1974.

—The Levitz Furniture Corp., one of the nation's largest furniture retailers, settled an Federal Trade Commission complaint about charges of false and misleading sales representation.

The FTC accepted a consent agreement that bars Levitz, which has 60 stores in 27 states, from future misrepresentations about its prices or products and from failing to make refunds to customers when merited.

Economist Expect No Inflation Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government economists expect no sharp divergence in the nation's inflation rate over the next few months, although they believe the pace of price increases will pick up before the year is over.

The Department of Labor comes out today with its report on consumer prices for May. Maynard Comiez, acting chief economist for the Commerce Department, said in an interview he expects the month's price-increase to be in the range of April's jump of fourtenths of 1 per cent.

Economists generally are still sticking to forecasts of an increase of 6 per cent or so in consumer prices over the whole year. Since consumer prices have been going up at an annual rate in the neighborhood of 3 per cent so far this year, that means a pace will have

Abby Would Write To Ann For Advice

DEAR ABBY: Our 29-year-old daughter has been living out of town with her boyfriend for six years. He refuses to support her, so she comes to town when she runs out of money. Then she works until she gets enough money to go back to him. She is highly educated and employable, and makes good money in her field. What is really bothering us is that she never turns up unless she wants something. Either it's, "May I run my laundry, wash my hair, borrow your truck, fix something to eat, watch your TV, use your phone, etc., etc." What would you say to this girl if she were yours? We are tired of being used.

GRRRRRRRR DEAR GRRRRRR: If she were mine, I'd also be "tired of being used," but too chicken-hearted to tell HER,

Baby Contest Set At Ashville 4th Of July

The Ashville Junior Women's Club and Community Club are co-sponsoring a Baby Contest July 3, at the Ashville Park. Judging will start at 10 a.m. Contestants must be residents of Pickaway County or Teays Valley School District and must not have had third birthday by July 4. Entries must pre-register by June 26. Send the following information to Mrs. Robert Remy, 4068 Ashville Fairfield Road, Ashville, Ohio 43103: child's name, age, sex, birthdate, parent's name, address, and telephone number. Include a self-addressed, stamped envelope to receive a registration number. Entries must be post-marked no later than June 26. Classes for the Prettiest Girl and the Prettiest Boy will be divided into age groups as follows: 0 to 6 months; 6 months to 1 year; 1 year to 2 years; and 2 years to 3 years. There will be classes for the Prettiest Twins and for the Best Decorated Stroller in the Bicentennial Theme. Ribbons and money will be awarded. Accommodations will be provided in case of rain. For further information contact Bonnie Remy, 983-3671; Debbie Forquer, 983-3824, or Judy McCallister, 983-3012.

so I'd write a letter to Ann Landers and ask her what SHE'D do. DEAR ABBY: You told the lady who wanted to meet the bachelor next door who owned a "singing" Boston terrier: "Invite him over for a T-bone steak dinner and tell him you'll save the bone for his dog." Abby, you should be aware that small bones (particularly cooked fowl, steak and chop bones) can kill a dog! Such bones splinter, and can puncture the digestive tract anywhere from the animal's throat to his intestines; a puncture of the stomach or intestines can cause rapid onset to peritonitis (infection in the abdominal cavity) followed by an extremely painful death. A puncture above the stomach could damage the heart, lungs or aorta, often fatally. If the man next door loves his dog he should not feed it bones.

DOG LOVER DEAR DOG LOVER: I'm glad you picked that bone with ME. Thanks for reminding me of something I once learned and had forgotten. Readers, are you listening? DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the mother who didn't think her six-year-old son was old enough to be told about his real father. Well, please tell her not to wait until her son is 18 and laying flat on his back in a hospital. That's what happened to my Eddy. When he was an infant, his father ran off and left me. Two years later I married a wonderful man who adopted Eddy, and I changed his name to ours. All this time I never heard from my first husband. Well, when Eddy was 18 he had a car accident and was confined to the hospital with back and head injuries. Out of the blue, his real father came to the hospital one night, claiming to be a minister, and told him that he was his real father. It almost put the kid in shock. I ended up telling him the truth, but it was one of the hardest things I ever had to do. Incidentally, his real father came to the hospital to see him again. But Eddy said, "Where were you when my mother and I needed you? I have a wonderful father now, and I don't need YOU, so please leave." Abby, please tell parents not to hold back the truth, as I did. It would have been better had I told my son when he was a small boy and let him grow up with the idea.

Holiday Pig More Appropriate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Roast pig would be a more appropriate holiday dish for Ohioans than the traditional turkey, according to the Ohio Historical Society. The society notes that Ohio lays claim to "one of the great hog breeds"—the Poland China, a strain that developed in the mid-1800s in the southwestern part of the state. Ohio farmers raise seven other breeds of purebred swine: Berkshire, Chester White, Duroc, Hampshire, Landrace, Spotted and Yorkshire. Recently, the General Assembly took action to put hog breeders on equal ground with cattlemen by providing state funds of up to $10,000 a year for the promotion and improvement of each of the eight breeds. The state money would be doled out on a matching basis to pork producers holding shows or exhibits to promote, advertise and award prizes for their animals. The legislation, sponsored by Rep. Eugene Branstool, D-Utica, was signed last month by Gov. James A. Rhodes and takes effect Aug. 31. Poland China hogs can be traced back to 1816 in Warren County where a group of Shakers imported four "Big China" pigs from Pennsylvania. From there on the evolution of the breed is hazy. However, the Chinas were almost certainly interbred with local porkers such as Russian, Berkshire, Byfield and Irish Grazer. By the 1840s, a distinctive Warren County, or Miami strain was recognizable. Just how the Poland strain was introduced has never been clear. Although Poland hogs were known at that time, it is not known whether they were a distinctive breed or merely named after a breeder of Polish extraction.

At any rate, when a registry was formulated in the 1870s, the name Poland was attached to the China breed as an official bloodline. "The Buckeyes had produced a docile, prolific, early maturing converter of corn to meat, which rapidly became popular among the nation's hog farmers," the historical society says. "Their reward thus far has been to see the product of their labors ignored during the holiday season in favor of a hand-me-down bird foisted upon heartlanders by a now moribund eastern elite."

Adelphi Residents Against Proposed Post Office Changes

Proposals to change the mode of operation of the Adelphi post office has met a wave of opposition according to attorney Don C. Patterson in a letter to Gene L. Scott, Postmaster of the United States Main Post Office in Columbus, Ohio. All postal residents in Adelphi received a letter from Scott proposing four alternatives to the present system in Adelphi and asking for opinions on them. Adelphi currently has a full service post office, with separate identity and ZIP code. One alternative as outlined by the postal service would be the creation of a community post office operated under a contract awarded to a member of the community through bidding with all postal services provided. A second alternative provides for rural carrier or star route service where postal carriers handle all transactions on daily rounds. The third alternative is a combination of the first two plans. The final plan is a non-personnel post office in which a rural carrier provides mail service into lockboxes. He will remain in the village a minimum of fifteen minutes each delivery day to conduct post office transactions. Patterson said the 500-plus population of the incorporated village needs the full service operation. Heavy users are the bank, businesses and lawyers operating in Adelphi, he said. According to Patterson, "there appears to me to be no valid reason why a community of this size should not continue to be served by a full service post office..." "I observe full service post offices being maintained in countless communities in this five county (Adelphi) area whose postal service needs could not possibly approach our local requirements," Patterson said.

However, he said that if the post office decides to abandon the full service operation, the only possible alternative for the community is a community post office as outlined in plan one.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Abby Would Write To Ann For Advice

DEAR ABBY: Our 29-year-old daughter has been living out of town with her boyfriend for six years. He refuses to support her, so she comes to town when she runs out of money. Then she works until she gets enough money to go back to him. She is highly educated and employable, and makes good money in her field. What is really bothering us is that she never turns up unless she wants something. Either it's, "May I run my laundry, wash my hair, borrow your truck, fix something to eat, watch your TV, use your phone, etc., etc."

What would you say to this girl if she were yours? We are tired of being used.

GGRRRRRRRR

DEAR GRRRRRR: If she were mine, I'd also be "tired of being used," but too chicken-hearted to tell HER,

Baby Contest Set At Ashville 4th Of July

The Ashville Junior Women's Club and Community Club are co-sponsoring a Baby Contest July 3, at the Ashville Park. Judging will start at 10 a.m.

Contestants must be residents of Pickaway County or Teays Valley School District and must not have had third birthday by July 4.

Entries must pre-register by June 26. Send the following information to Mrs. Robert Remy, 4068 Ashville Fairfield Road, Ashville, Ohio 43103: child's name, age, sex, birthdate, parent's name, address, and telephone number. Include a self-addressed, stamped envelope to receive a registration number. Entries must be post-marked no later than June 26.

Classes for the Prettiest Girl and the Prettiest Boy will be divided into age groups as follows: 0 to 6 months; 6 months to 1 year; 1 year to 2 years; and 2 years to 3 years. There will be classes for the Prettiest Twins and for the Best Decorated Stroller in the Bicentennial Theme. Ribbons and money will be awarded. Accommodations will be provided in case of rain.

For further information contact Bonnie Remy, 983-3671; Debbie Forquer, 983-3824, or Judy McCallister, 983-3012.

so I'd write a letter to Ann Landers and ask her what SHE'D do.

DEAR ABBY: You told the lady who wanted to meet the bachelor next door who owned a "singing" Boston terrier: "Invite him over for a T-bone steak dinner and tell him you'll save the bone for his dog."

Abby, you should be aware that small bones (particularly cooked fowl, steak and chop bones) can kill a dog! Such bones splinter, and can puncture the digestive tract anywhere from the animal's throat to his intestines; a puncture of the stomach or intestines can cause rapid onset to peritonitis (infection in the abdominal cavity) followed by an extremely painful death. A puncture above the stomach could damage the heart, lungs or aorta, often fatally.

If the man next door loves his dog he should not feed it bones.

DOG LOVER

DEAR DOG LOVER: I'm glad you picked that bone with ME. Thanks for reminding me of something I once learned and had forgotten. Readers, are you listening?

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the mother who didn't think her six-year-old son was old enough to be told about his real father. Well, please tell her not to wait until her son is 18 and laying flat on his back in a hospital. That's what happened to my Eddy.

When he was an infant, his father ran off and left me. Two years later I married a wonderful man who adopted Eddy, and I changed his name to ours.

All this time I never heard from my first husband. Well, when Eddy was 18 he had a car accident and was confined to the hospital with back and head injuries. Out of the blue, his real father came to the hospital one night, claiming to be a minister, and told him that he was his real father. It almost put the kid in shock.

I ended up telling him the truth, but it was one of the hardest things I ever had to do. Incidentally, his real father came to the hospital to see him again. But Eddy said, "Where were you when my mother and I needed you? I have a wonderful father now, and I don't need YOU, so please leave."

Abby, please tell parents not to hold back the truth, as I did. It would have been better had I told my son when he was a small boy and let him grow up with the idea.

Holiday Pig More Appropriate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Roast pig would be a more appropriate holiday dish for Ohioans than the traditional turkey, according to the Ohio Historical Society.

The society notes that Ohio lays claim to "one of the great hog breeds"—the Poland China, a strain that developed in the mid-1800s in the southwestern part of the state.

Ohio farmers raise seven other breeds of purebred swine: Berkshire, Chester White, Duroc, Hampshire, Landrace, Spotted and Yorkshire.

Recently, the General Assembly took action to put hog breeders on equal ground with cattlemen by providing state funds of up to $10,000 a year for the promotion and improvement of each of the eight breeds.

The state money would be doled out on a matching basis to pork producers holding shows or exhibits to promote, advertise and award prizes for their animals.

The legislation, sponsored by Rep. Eugene Branstool, D-Utica, was signed last month by Gov. James A. Rhodes and takes effect Aug. 31.

Poland China hogs can be traced back to 1816 in Warren County where a group of Shakers imported four "Big China" pigs from Pennsylvania.

From there on the evolution of the breed is hazy. However, the Chinas were almost certainly interbred with local porkers such as Russian, Berkshire, Byfield and Irish Grazer. By the 1840s, a distinctive Warren County, or Miami strain was recognizable.

Just how the Poland strain was introduced has never been clear. Although Poland hogs were known at that time, it is not known whether they were a distinctive breed or merely named after a breeder of Polish extraction.

At any rate, when a registry was formulated in the 1870s, the name Poland was attached to the China breed as an official bloodline.

"The Buckeyes had produced a docile, prolific, early maturing converter of corn to meat, which rapidly became popular among the nation's hog farmers," the historical society says.

"Their reward thus far has been to see the product of their labors ignored during the holiday season in favor of a hand-me-down bird foisted upon heartlanders by a now moribund eastern elite."

Short-Staturred Meeting Draws 200 Dwarfs

BALTIMORE (AP) — It was called a "short-statured symposium," and 200 dwarfs from across the country showed up to discuss the problems in the daily lives of shorter people.

"For the child, the real problems begin when he starts preschool," said Joan O. Weiss, a social worker and cochairman of Johns Hopkins University's sixth annual symposium which was held over the weekend.

"His classmates will tend to baby him or try to pick him up and carry him around. Teachers very often are overprotective."

"For parents, the problems begin when other children in the neighborhood begin to tease their short-statured child. Most parents initially go through what we call a 'grief syndrome' when they discover the perfect baby they expected did not come."

There are an estimated 100,000 dwarfs in the United States. The condition occurs in one out of every 20,000 births and is usually linked to hereditary, dietary, infectious and hormonal causes.

Political Winds Active

While American attention naturally is centered on the domestic political scene, with past surprises and possibly more to come, political fever also is rising in Europe. At least a half dozen governments on that continent face national elections this year or could be forced into them and the winds of prospective changes are blowing everywhere.

Italy holds the spotlight at the moment. The campaign which culminates at the polls June 20-21 threatens to produce a large communist vote and could bring that party into a new coalition government. The communists have been gaining strength in local elections for years. Whether they can parlay that strength into the national scene is the question.

Sweden is gearing up for September elections in which the long dominant Social Democrats appear to be in trouble. Forty years of increasing welfarism and one of the highest rates of taxation in the West are taking their toll.

In October, it is the West Germans' turn at the polls. Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's ruling Social Democrat coalition has lost regional elections this year and has not been helped by the latest spy scandal.

Britain is struggling with the usual fiscal and monetary problems, worse if possible than usual. Labor's slim margin of control could be toppled. Spain's King Juan Carlos is meeting increasing resistance in his drive toward more democratic institutions. The outcome remains in doubt.

1976 is turning into a fateful year for leadership in a large part of the West.

A Busy Person Has Time

EDITOR'S NOTE: Phyllis Battelle is on vacation. While she is away, she has asked some of her celebrity friends to write guest columns. Today's guest is actress Dina Merrill.

By DINA MERRILL

NEW YORK — Are you a volunteer? If you are, you're part of a powerful force in our country, some 43 million strong. Teenagers, men and women of all ages, even retired folks, giving of themselves in countless different ways, to make life a little brighter for someone else.

The possibilities are endless: serving as a nurse's aide in a hospital, or a teacher's aide in one of your community's schools; being a scout leader; raising money for any number of health, service, religious or cultural organizations; coaching a Little League team; shopping, letter writing, or just talking to a lonely older person; helping with a local youth program; or just holding a tiny baby who's been abandoned to an institution. And that's just for starters...

Too busy, you say? Couldn't possibly take on another thing? Then you're just the person I want to talk to! You see, I've got a pet motto that goes: a busy person is someone who can always be called upon to do extra. And you know... it's the truth. I've seen it in my own time and time again!

But don't for a minute think volunteering is all selfless and sacrificing.

Frankly, I think the returns are every bit as great as what you give. They're the things that tug the heart; the joy when a youngster masters a new skill; the light in an elderly person's eyes from the companionship you've given; the smile from a tiny baby who's been starved for human warmth and love. Can a reward, really, be more enriching than that?

And there are some very practical reasons, too: a chance to try something new; explore an area you've always been interested in; learn a new skill; meet new people; or help someone close to you.

That last is what got me going... when I first began fighting an enemy that struck my son, David. When he became diabetic at age 14, it was like a bolt out of the blue! None of us knew the first thing about diabetes. And suddenly, here we were faced with the fact that David would have to alter his life style - for good. As a juvenile diabetic he had to take insulin to stay alive, a shot a day - sometimes two; follow a special diet, test his urine daily, eat at specific times, and be on guard for insulin reactions. All just to control the diabetes, because there is no cure. And although the main burden was his, it was a trying time for all of us.

David didn't live long enough for the severe complications that threaten so many diabetics to set in. He died in a boating accident three summers ago. But for all the other children and adults (10 million by latest estimates) still facing one of our most common and destructive diseases, I keep fighting.

When David was first diagnosed, he had a tough time getting his head together. Then one summer we went to the Joslin Clinic in Boston, a leading diabetes teaching and research center, where some wonderful people taught David how to approach his disease in a sensible and adult fashion. What a difference it made. I was so grateful, I began writing fund raising letters for them, appearing on talk shows, things like that. Later, I joined the Youth Committee of the American Diabetes Association, and then the board of directors of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. And I won't stop until they have a cure, or at least some answers to the many terrible complications.

Even David got involved - returning to Joslin a few years later to form, with a friend, a youth committee to help and reassure newly diagnosed young diabetics.

The rewards? For me, they've been far greater than I ever dreamed. The research we've funded, the legislation we've been instrumental in getting passed, the increased Federal appropriations that have been approved are exciting, forward steps in a battle we must win. And now I am being honored at the gala ball of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation in New York City next November, the proceeds from which will go directly to fund research. Surely the most flattering and meaningful tribute.

Volunteering? If I had to sum it up I'd say, more than anything, it enriches...each day...in very special ways as nothing else can do.

Why not give it a try? I think you'll find it does the same for you.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — At midyear the economy continues to move ahead, at least as measured by the popular indicators, but with an irregularity and inconsistency that provokes doubts from time to time.

Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, recently raised his forecast of real growth for the year to 7 per cent, a significant increase of about 1 per cent over earlier forecasts.

Although private forecasts tend to be a bit lower than Greenspan's, he is not alone by any means. The Wharton Econometric forecast, issued this month, foresees a rise in Gross National Product of 6.6 per cent for 1976.

But while assurances of this sort circulate, the presence of relatively high rates of interest, inflation and unemployment prevent any euphoria. A poor housing market and a stalled stock market add to the insecurity.

A prominent broker recently issued an analysis that was remarkable in its simple conclusion: Perhaps the inability of the stock market to move ahead is a reliable forecast of an economy that will find progress difficult.

Some consumers apparently feel that way. After a surge of retail buying earlier this year they have settled back into a wait and see attitude, made hesitant by the reappearance of some hefty price increases.

The surveys of consumer sentiment pretty well document the likely attitude of shoppers if inflation threatens to get much worse: They will simply stop buying. They are not eager to go through it all over again.

What certainly must bother a great number of Americans is the continued presence of old problems and the inability of anyone to do much about them.

Housing is a perfect case. The industry has had very little success in curbing rising prices, which now have put home ownership far beyond the ability of many middle-class couples. And the government has been no more successful.

More pervasive even are the problems of unemployment and inflation. While certain statistics proclaim recovery, these two measures of the nation's wellbeing remain at levels that heretofore would have suggested deep recession.

Statistically, the economy appears to be performing well if you restrict your measurements to such items as output and inventories. Include in your analysis such concerns as inflation and unemployment and it seems to be doing less well.

And should you be among the large numbers who feel they are not participating in the recovery, you might ask "what's all this talk of prosperity about?"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I lost 65 pounds in the last year. Now I am left with an enormous amount of loose, flabby tissue. Can this be removed by an operation? Is it a dangerous operation?

Mrs. G. F. n.c.

Dear Mrs. F.:

With such a considerable loss of weight, it is understandable that the muscular and skin structure can be distorted. It is rare, even with exercise, for the muscles and the body tissue to return to their former state of firmness.

Many surgeons now are able to remove such excess flabbiness of the skin around the abdomen, buttocks and thighs. The results can be most gratifying. These operations, performed by general surgeons and plastic surgeons, leave very slight scars.

The operation is not a dangerous one. Yet the same rules apply to such surgery as to all other plastic surgery. A complete physical examination and coordination between the general surgeon are essential before such a procedure should be undertaken.

I was in perfect health until I started to take water pills for reducing. Then I became sick. I learned that my potassium had fallen. Is that usual after taking water pills?

Miss A. K. mich.

Dear Miss K.:

I must assume that you, like many other people, take water pills without consulting a doctor.

Sometimes these pills are "traded" among friends and are taken without an understanding of their potential risks.

Doctors who prescribe diuretics (water pills) are aware that a possible loss of potassium may occur and are on the lookout for the symptoms associated with it. Repeated blood tests are done to insure that there is no excess fall of potassium in the blood.

Hypokalemia, or diminished levels of potassium in the blood, can also be associated with other illnesses. Loss of fluid by vomiting and diarrhea can produce this.

There are ways to counterbalance the low potassium. Bananas, molasses, orange juice and wheat germ are high in potassium. These, in conjunction with potassium chloride, can increase the potassium level in the blood and eradicate the symptoms associated with hypokalemia.

Diuretics are useful drugs, but they must not be taken by those uninformed of their possible dangers.

'Human Fly' Still Hides True Identity

MOJAVE, Calif. (AP) — The Human Fly had done his daring deed: He had flown 100 feet above the Mojave Desert strapped to the top of a DC8 jetliner.

The 29-year-old masked man gestured to the crowd below with the sign of a cross and a clenched fist. "It was a great feeling up there," he said after the flight at the California National Air Races.

"I'm the greatest daredevil in the world."

The performance of a latterday barnstormer was at 220 miles an hour

Sheriff's Wife Begins Write-In Campaign

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The wife of Athens County Sheriff Paul E. Brown, who was defeated in the Democratic primary, has announced she will run as a write-in candidate for her husband's job.

Mrs. Donna Brown, who has been a deputy and jail matron during her husband's term, said there would be no changes in department operations or personnel if she wins in November.

She is opposed by Democrat Gary Efaw, who polled more than twice the votes that her husband gathered in the primary, and Republican Wayne Stotts.

The current sheriff said a campaign issue about office operations and an Ohio University student newspaper article about the office were distorted and caused his defeat.

Some 36,000 persons were killed when a volcano erupted on the Island of Krakatoa in the Netherlands Indies Aug. 26, 1883.

Sunday, considerably more than the speeds of wingstanders in the biplane days.

Although dressed in gaudy white cape, red jumpsuit and red platform shoes for the 15 minute flight, The Human Fly claimed no interest in personal fame.

Throughout the flight and meetings with reporters later, his face was concealed with a red mask.

"The Fly wants to remain anonymous because he doesn't want to draw attention to himself," said his promotion agent, David Levin.

Levin claimed the Fly's steely nerve and stamina stem from his experience in an automobile accident in which 60 per cent of his body was ruined and rebuilt with steel parts.

He added that because of the Fly's hospital experience, he will donate "a substantial portion of his earnings to a recognizable charity."

The Fly seemed a bit nervous as his aides bound his chest and legs to his flying brace, but his manner was confident as man and machine descended to the runway, the man signaling victory.

Back on the ground, the Fly was dashed to doctors for a checkup and was given the goahead to meet reporters.

"The only problem I had up there was with my helmet," he said. "A piece came off during the flight."

And he added: "I'm going to be around for a long while yet. Just look forward to seeing the greatest daredevil that ever lived."

Inflation Neutral Tax Introduced By Taft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, introduced a tax bill Monday which he says would prevent inflation from pushing wage-earners into higher tax brackets without an equivalent raise in spendable income.

Taft calls the bill "inflation neutral tax" and says it would require yearly adjustments of the personal exemption, the standard deduction and tax brackets in accordance with the government-kept Consumer Price Index.

He said labor department statistics prove the case for his proposed measure and listed these figures: An average steelworker's income rose by 302 per cent between 1950 and 1975 while federal income taxes for that worker with four exemptions rose 996.3 per cent.

Political Winds Active

While American attention naturally is centered on the domestic political scene, with past surprises and possibly more to come, political fever also is rising in Europe. At least a half dozen governments on that continent face national elections this year or could be forced into them and the winds of prospective changes are blowing everywhere.

Italy holds the spotlight at the moment. The campaign which culminates at the polls June 20-21 threatens to produce a large communist vote and could bring that party into a new coalition government. The communists have been gaining strength in local elections for years. Whether they can parlay that strength into the national scene is the question.

Sweden is gearing up for September elections in which the long dominant Social Democrats appear to be in trouble. Forty years of increasing welfarism and one of the highest rates of taxation in the West are taking their toll.

In October, it is the West Germans' turn at the polls. Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's ruling Social Democrat coalition has lost regional elections this year and has not been helped by the latest spy scandal.

Britain is struggling with the usual fiscal and monetary problems, worse if possible than usual. Labor's slim margin of control could be toppled. Spain's King Juan Carlos is meeting increasing resistance in his drive toward more democratic institutions. The outcome remains in doubt.

1976 is turning into a fateful year for leadership in a large part of the West.

A Busy Person Has Time

By DINA MERRILL

NEW YORK — Are you a volunteer? If you are, you're part of a powerful force in our country, some 43 million strong. Teenagers, men and women of all ages, even retired folks, giving of themselves in countless different ways, to make life a little brighter for someone else.

The possibilities are endless: serving as a nurse's aide in a hospital, or a teacher's aide in one of your community's schools; being a scout leader; raising money for any number of health, service, religious or cultural organizations; coaching a Little League team; shopping, letter writing, or just talking to a lonely older person; helping with a local youth program; or just holding a tiny baby who's been abandoned to an institution. And that's just for starters...

Too busy, you say? Couldn't possibly take on another thing? Then you're just the person I want to talk to! You see, I've got a pet motto that goes: a busy person is someone who can always be called upon to do extra. And you know... it's the truth. I've seen it in myself time and time again!

But don't for a minute think volunteering is all selfless and sacrificing.

Frankly, I think the returns are every bit as great as what you give. They're the things that tug the heart; the joy when a youngster masters a new skill; the light in an elderly person's eyes from the companionship you've given; the smile from a tiny baby who's been starved for human warmth and love. Can a reward, really, be more enriching than that?

And there are some very practical reasons, too: a chance to try something new; explore an area you've always been interested in; learn a new skill; meet new people; or help someone close to you.

That last is what got me going... when I first began fighting an enemy that struck my son, David. When he became diabetic at age 14, it was like a bolt out of the blue! None of us knew the first thing about diabetes. And suddenly, here we were faced with the fact that David would have to alter his life style - for good. As a juvenile diabetic he had to take insulin to stay alive, a shot a day - sometimes two; follow a special diet, test his urine daily, eat at specific times, and be on guard for insulin reactions. All just to control the diabetes, because there is no cure. And although the main burden was his, it was a trying time for all of us.

David didn't live long enough for the severe complications that threaten so many diabetics to set in. He died in a boating accident three summers ago. But for all the other children and adults (10 million by latest estimates) still facing one of our most common and destructive diseases, I keep fighting.

When David was first diagnosed, he had a tough time getting his head together. Then one summer we went to the Joslin Clinic in Boston, a leading diabetes teaching and research center, where some wonderful people taught David how to approach his disease in a sensible and adult fashion. What a difference it made. I was so grateful, I began writing fund raising letters for them, appearing on talk shows, things like that. Later, I joined the Youth Committee of the American Diabetes Association, and then the board of directors of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. And I won't stop until they have a cure, or at least some answers to the many terrible complications.

Even David got involved - returning to Joslin a few years later to form, with a friend, a youth committee to help and reassure newly diagnosed young diabetics.

The rewards? For me, they've been far greater than I ever dreamed. The research we've funded, the legislation we've been instrumental in getting passed, the increased Federal appropriations that have been approved are exciting, forward steps in a battle we must win. And now I am being honored at the gala ball of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation in New York City next November, the proceeds from which will go directly to fund research. Surely the most flattering and meaningful tribute.

Volunteering? If I had to sum it up I'd say, more than anything, it enriches...each day...in very special ways as nothing else can do.

Why not give it a try? I think you'll find it does the same for you.

Otterbein Opens 6th Annual Moffitt Clinic

WESTERVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The sixth annual Otterbein Moffitt Clinic begins next Tuesday with more than 500 band directors and members from across the country expected to attend.

The clinic is named for Dr. William C. Moffitt of the University of Houston who has a long relationship with the Otterbein band music program. He will be conducting workshops for directors.

This year a clinic for E flat trumpet will be offered by Donald Moffitt, also of the University of Houston.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I lost 65 pounds in the last year. Now I am left with an enormous amount of loose, flabby tissue. Can this be removed by an operation? Is it a dangerous operation?

Mrs. G. F. n.c.

Dear Mrs. F.:

With such a considerable loss of weight, it is understandable that the muscular and skin structure can be distorted. It is rare, even with exercise, for the muscles and the body tissue to return to their former state of firmness.

Many surgeons now are able to remove such excess flabbiness of the skin around the abdomen, buttocks and thighs. The results can be most gratifying. These operations, performed by general surgeons and plastic surgeons, leave very slight scars.

The operation is not a dangerous one. Yet the same rules apply to such surgery as to all other plastic surgery. A complete physical examination and coordination between the general surgeon are essential before such a procedure should be undertaken.

I was in perfect health until I started to take water pills for reducing. Then I became sick. I learned that my potassium had fallen. Is that usual after taking water pills?

Miss A. K. mich.

Dear Miss K.:

I must assume that you, like many other people, take water pills without consulting a doctor.

Sometimes these pills are "traded" among friends and are taken without an understanding of their potential risks.

Doctors who prescribe diuretics (water pills) are aware that a possible loss of potassium may occur and are on the lookout for the symptoms associated with it. Repeated blood tests are done to insure that there is no excess fall of potassium in the blood.

Hypokalemia, or diminished levels of potassium in the blood, can also be associated with other illnesses. Loss of fluid by vomiting and diarrhea can produce this.

There are ways to counterbalance the low potassium. Bananas, molasses, orange juice and wheat germ are high in potassium. These, in conjunction with potassium chloride, can increase the potassium level in the blood and eradicate the symptoms associated with hypokalemia.

Diuretics are useful drugs, but they must not be taken by those uninformed of their possible dangers.

'Human Fly' Still Hides True Identity

MOJAVE, Calif. (AP) — The Human Fly had done his daring deed: He had flown 100 feet above the Mojave Desert strapped to the top of a DC8 jetliner.

The 29-year-old masked man gestured to the crowd below with the sign of a cross and a clenched fist. "It was a great feeling up there," he said after the flight at the California National Air Races.

Sheriff's Wife Begins Write-In Campaign

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The wife of Athens County Sheriff Paul E. Brown, who was defeated in the Democratic primary, has announced she will run as a write-in candidate for her husband's job.

Mrs. Donna Brown, who has been a deputy and jail matron during her husband's term, said there would be no changes in department operations or personnel if she wins in November.

She is opposed by Democrat Gary Efaw, who polled more than twice the votes that her husband gathered in the primary, and Republican Wayne Stotts.

The current sheriff said a campaign issue about office operations and an Ohio University student newspaper article about the office were distorted and caused his defeat.

Sunday, considerably more than the speeds of wingstanders in the biplane days.

Although dressed in gaudy white cape, red jumpsuit and red platform shoes for the 15 minute flight, The Human Fly claimed no interest in personal fame.

Throughout the flight and meetings with reporters later, his face was concealed with a red mask.

"The Fly wants to remain anonymous because he doesn't want to draw attention to himself," said his promotion agent, David Levin.

Levin claimed the Fly's steely nerve and stamina stem from his experience in an automobile accident in which 60 per cent of his body was ruined and rebuilt with steel parts.

He added that because of the Fly's hospital experience, he will donate "a substantial portion of his earnings to a recognizable charity."

The Fly seemed a bit nervous as his aides bound his chest and legs to his flying brace, but his manner was confident as man and machine descended to the runway, the man signaling victory.

Back on the ground, the Fly was dashed to doctors for a checkup and was given the goahead to meet reporters.

"The only problem I had up there was with my helmet," he said. "A piece came off during the flight."

And he added: "I'm going to be around for a long while yet. Just look forward to seeing the greatest daredevil that ever lived."

Inflation Neutral Tax Introduced By Taft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, introduced a tax bill Monday which he says would prevent inflation from pushing wage-earners into higher tax brackets without an equivalent raise in spendable income.

Taft calls the bill "inflation neutral tax" and says it would require yearly adjustments of the personal exemption, the standard deduction and tax brackets in accordance with the government-kept Consumer Price Index.

He said labor department statistics prove the case for his proposed measure and listed these figures: An average steelworker's income rose by 302 per cent between 1950 and 1975 while federal income taxes for that worker with four exemptions rose 996.3 per cent.

Judge Bars Akron URW Picketing

AKRON (AP) — A restraining order barring picketing at General Tire and Rubber Co.'s Akron plant was granted Monday by a Summit County common pleas judge.

Striking United Rubber Workers (URW) from the industry's Big Four picketed General Tire in Akron Monday, effectively halting the plant's operation. URW workers for General Tire have an agreement with the firm to remain on the job despite expiration of their contract on May 15.

Peter Bommarito, URW International president, had said the union was ill-served when General Tire's nearly 2,700 workers in Akron and Waco, Tex., decided to remain on the job after their contract expired.

Bommarito had urged the General Tire workers to join the 60,000 who have been striking Goodyear, Goodrich, Uniroyal, and Firestone Tire and Rubber Cos., the industry's U.S. giants, for 65 days.

Meanwhile, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service Director James Searce was scheduled to arrive in Cleveland Tuesday in an attempt to aid the deadlock negotiations between striking URW workers and the Big Four, a Firestone spokesman said Monday.

Baby In Good Hands During Kidnapping

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — "Whoever she was, she took very good care of Mark." Those were the words of the grateful mother of the 5-month-old baby who was taken Sunday from the church nursery of the First Church of Christ in Painesville by a woman police were still looking for Monday.

The child, son of Gregory and Velma Heath, both 25, of Painesville Township, was found Monday morning guzzling a warm bottle of milk in a hallway of a motel near Painesville. While the Heaths were singing hymns in church, a woman unknown either to the Heaths or the woman in charge of the nursery, Ruth Slitor, walked in, said the baby was hers and left with him.

Police said three other Painesville churches were visited Sunday morning by a woman whose description was the same in each case. In each instance, she asked if there was a 6-week-old baby in the nursery. Upon learning that there was no such child, she explained that her mother must have taken the baby to church.

At the church where the Heath child was one of five left in Mrs. Slitor's care, a young blonde woman explained she wanted to take the baby early to avoid the traffic at the end of the service.

She then picked up Mark, dressed him in a cloak and bonnet and left, police said.

The Heath youngster, one of the couple's three children, was the only one whose parents Mrs. Slitor didn't know, officers said.

Mrs. Heath said she never used regular babysitters and wouldn't have left Mark this time had she and her husband been able to take him with them into the choir loft. She said they hadn't sung there before Sunday.

Mrs. Heath added that it was "complete chaos" in the nursery when they learned Mark was missing.

"We prayed to God and fasted until we found him," she said. "We believe God when he says 'Ask and you shall receive.' We put it at His feet and He didn't let us down."

The boy was found by Lincoln Burr of Massachusetts, who had spent the night at the motel. Police chief Charles White said Burr heard a baby outside his room, looked out "and saw a couple just walking past." Burr had heard reports of a missing baby, and notified authorities.

Mark was drinking from a new bottle, and was wearing a makeshift diaper fashioned from the motel's paper napkins. He was also given a dose of ointment for his diaper rash.

discussions on Firestone as the firm most likely to set the pace for the rest while continuing talks with the others on noneconomic matters.

Principal stumbling blocks in the Firestone talks have been wage increases and cost-of-living adjustment rates, along with pension and health benefits. The union seeks a 42 per cent boost in its current $9.05 hourly package that includes $5.50 in wages.

Firestone offered an additional $1.15 an hour over three years, plus 10 cents if the union accepted some work-rule changes. It also offered a living-cost provision the union figured at 17 cents an hour against its demand of 95 cents.

Juveniles, Man Charged By Police

Circleville Police, who arrested two juveniles and an adult on a variety of charges, are continuing to investigate several Tuesday morning incidents.

Police Ptl. Joe Stevenson has charged 18-year-old James Lemaster, 146 Starkey Drive, with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and a 16-year-old youth with a curfew violation and receiving and concealing stolen property.

A 17-year-old youth, apparently involved with the others, was arrested by Ptl. Ken Henn for violation of probation, curfew, and resisting arrest. Ptl. Stevenson injured his hand on the youth's handcuffs while assisting Henn with the arrest.

The 16-year-old youth apparently took keys from a car owned by Mary Greeno, 397 Town St., about 2:50 a.m. Tuesday.

He was arrested about 15 minutes after the incident by Ptl. Stevenson, who found him hiding in a car in front of 330 Walnut St.

New Ohio Drug Act Tough On Pushers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Final provisions of Ohio's Drug Abuse Control Act are effective Thursday, with the weight of the law promising to come down hard on pushers, drug ring leaders and corrupters.

A highly-publicized section of the law decriminalizing casual use of marijuana has been in effect since Nov. 21, but this week marks a new era in prosecution of hard drug offenders.

"The act assures that the pushers convicted of selling hard drugs to minors, for example, go to jail for at least seven years," explains the office of Atty. Gen. William J. Brown.

That's the key to the new penalties—mandatory minimum sentences, ranging from three months to 12 years, with no opportunity for a suspended sentence, probation or shock parole.

It also eliminates some offenses and creates new ones, more applicable to the contemporary climate. And, although the focus is on enforcement, the law is tempered in the area of treatment and rehabilitation by some compassionate elements.

Drug users who are not charged with a violent crime may request pretrial diversion from criminal prosecution to an approved treatment program. The burden, however, is placed on the user 'Non-Political'

Mission Brings Ford To Indiana

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is heading for Indiana on the second trip in eight days that his aides say is nonpolitical. An aide says he knows of no plans for Ford to travel on any specifically political mission before the Republican convention.

Ford was to deliver a speech at the annual convention of the Jaycees in Indianapolis today. He was due to return to the White House in time for afternoon appointments.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the Indiana trip had no connection with Ford's tight battle for the Republican presidential nomination against challenger Ronald Reagan. The cost of the journey will be paid out of federal funds.

That also was the case last Tuesday when Ford flew to Norfolk, Va., to address the National Baptist Convention representing coreligionists of the near-certain Democratic presidential nominee, Jimmy Carter.

The President had been scheduled to fly to Des Moines last Friday to make a direct appeal for support at the Iowa GOP convention. He canceled on short notice on grounds that he had to manage the evacuation of Americans from Lebanon. He sent his wife Betty in his place.

Mrs. Ford's press staff announced Monday that the First Lady will make a similar appearance Friday at the Minnesota Republican convention in St. Paul as a stand-in for the President.

Nessen said other convention appearances by Mrs. Ford might be scheduled, but he reported that he knew of no plans for any political trips by the President between now and the Republican national convention in Kansas City in mid-August.

Mrs. Ford, who followed an active campaign schedule of her own during the presidential primary season, scheduled "nonpolitical" appearances for Tuesday in New York City. She plans to attend a bicentennial dinner of the Jewish National Fund Tuesday night after dedicating the Martin Steinberg Cultural Center at the headquarters of the American Jewish Congress there.

Next Tuesday, Mrs. Ford will travel to Plymouth, Mass., to open a bicentennial exhibit labeled "Remember the Ladies: Women in America 1750-1815."

to demonstrate that he has a "high probability of rehabilitation."

Those who are successfully rehabilitated will be rewarded by a dismissal of charges and expungement of the case record. The law also leaves open the possibility of conditional probation for some drug offenses, contingent on participation in a treatment program.

The crime of possession with intent to sell has been abolished in the new language. But Asst. Atty. Gen. Michael R. Szolosi says prosecution of potential pushers will be made easier by sections setting penalties for packaging, preparing for shipment or transporting narcotics.

Also gone is a section of the law that implied guilt by association by making it a crime to frequent a place where drug abuse occurs.

Most of the penalties for possession or sale will be on a scale based on the amount and danger of the drug.

Drugs will be classified in five categories. Schedule 1 drugs—heroin, cocaine and LSD, for instance—are considered to be extremely dangerous with no legitimate medical use. The other end of the spectrum is Schedule 5—"Drugs with low potential for abuse that are sold over the counter."

Large drug caches will be termed

"bulk" amounts, the determination varying with the particular narcotic substance. With marijuana, bulk means seven ounces. With heroin or cocaine, lighter substances, bulk is .35 ounces, or 25 doses. The penalty for simple possession is a mandatory 1½ years in prison on first offense.

The most severe penalties are reserved for those who try to hook another on narcotics. The law calls this "corrupting" with drugs—a device often used by pushers to create new markets, according to the attorney general. This offense means seven years behind bars for first offenders and 12 years for repeaters.

The pendulum of justice swings in the opposite direction for casual marijuana smokers and other users of "soft drugs." Since last year, possession of less than 3½ ounces of pot has meant a maximum penalty of a $100 fine with no minimum and no escalation for repeat offenses and no criminal record.

Here is a sample of some of the new absolute minimum prison terms:

—First offense possession of a bulk amount of heroin, LSD or cocaine, 1½ years; three years for second offense.

—First offense for sale of bulk amounts of the same drug, three years; five for second offense.

—First offense on financing drug traffic or operating a drug ring, seven years, with 10 years for a second offender.

Mrs. Heath said she never used regular babysitters and wouldn't have left Mark this time had she and her husband been able to take him with them into the choir loft. She said they hadn't sung there before Sunday.

Mrs. Heath added that it was "complete chaos" in the nursery when they learned Mark was missing.

"We prayed to God and fasted until we found him," she said. "We believe God when he says 'Ask and you shall receive.' We put it at His feet and He didn't let us down."

The boy was found by Lincoln Burr of Massachusetts, who had spent the night at the motel. Police chief Charles White said Burr heard a baby outside his room, looked out "and saw a couple just walking past." Burr had heard reports of a missing baby, and notified authorities.

Mark was drinking from a new bottle, and was wearing a makeshift diaper fashioned from the motel's paper napkins. He was also given a dose of ointment for his diaper rash.

discussions on Firestone as the firm most likely to set the pace for the rest while continuing talks with the others on noneconomic matters.

Principal stumbling blocks in the Firestone talks have been wage increases and cost-of-living adjustment rates, along with pension and health benefits. The union seeks a 42 per cent boost in its current $9.05 hourly package that includes $5.50 in wages.

Firestone offered an additional $1.15 an hour over three years, plus 10 cents if the union accepted some work-rule changes. It also offered a living-cost provision the union figured at 17 cents an hour against its demand of 95 cents.

Juveniles, Man Charged By Police

Circleville Police, who arrested two juveniles and an adult on a variety of charges, are continuing to investigate several Tuesday morning incidents.

Police Ptl. Joe Stevenson has charged 18-year-old James Lemaster, 146 Starkey Drive, with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and a 16-year-old youth with a curfew violation and receiving and concealing stolen property.

A 17-year-old youth, apparently involved with the others, was arrested by Ptl. Ken Henn for violation of probation, curfew, and resisting arrest. Ptl. Stevenson injured his hand on the youth's handcuffs while assisting Henn with the arrest.

The 16-year-old youth apparently took keys from a car owned by Mary Greeno, 397 Town St., about 2:50 a.m. Tuesday.

He was arrested about 15 minutes after the incident by Ptl. Stevenson, who found him hiding in a car in front of 330 Walnut St.

New Ohio Drug Act Tough On Pushers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Final provisions of Ohio's Drug Abuse Control Act are effective Thursday, with the weight of the law promising to come down hard on pushers, drug ring leaders and corrupters.

A highly-publicized section of the law decriminalizing casual use of marijuana has been in effect since Nov. 21, but this week marks a new era in prosecution of hard drug offenders.

The act assures that the pushers convicted of selling hard drugs to minors, for example, go to jail for at least seven years," explains the office of Atty. Gen. William J. Brown.

That's the key to the new penalties—mandatory minimum sentences, ranging from three months to 12 years, with no opportunity for a suspended sentence, probation or shock parole. It also eliminates some offenses and creates new ones, more applicable to the contemporary climate. And, although the focus is on enforcement, the law is tempered in the area of treatment and rehabilitation by some compassionate elements.

Drug users who are not charged with a violent crime may request pretrial diversion from criminal prosecution to an approved treatment program. The burden, however, is placed on the user.

'Non-Political' Mission Brings Ford To Indiana

Ford To Indiana

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is heading for Indiana on the second trip in eight days that his aides say is nonpolitical. An aide says he knows of no plans for Ford to travel on any specifically political mission before the Republican convention.

Ford was to deliver a speech at the annual convention of the Jaycees in Indianapolis today. He was due to return to the White House in time for afternoon appointments.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the Indiana trip had no connection with Ford's tight battle for the Republican presidential nomination against challenger Ronald Reagan. The cost of the journey will be paid out of federal funds.

That also was the case last Tuesday when Ford flew to Norfolk, Va., to address the National Baptist Convention representing coreligionists of the near-certain Democratic presidential nominee, Jimmy Carter.

The President had been scheduled to fly to Des Moines last Friday to make a direct appeal for support at the Iowa GOP convention. He canceled on short notice on grounds that he had to manage the evacuation of Americans from Lebanon. He sent his wife Betty in his place.

Mrs. Ford's press staff announced Monday that the First Lady will make a similar appearance Friday at the Minnesota Republican convention in St. Paul as a stand-in for the President.

Nessen said other convention appearances by Mrs. Ford might be scheduled, but he reported that he knew of no plans for any political trips by the President between now and the Republican national convention in Kansas City in mid-August.

Mrs. Ford, who followed an active campaign schedule of her own during the presidential primary season, scheduled "nonpolitical" appearances for Tuesday in New York City. She plans to attend a bicentennial dinner of the Jewish National Fund Tuesday night after dedicating the Martin Steinberg Cultural Center at the headquarters of the American Jewish Congress there.

Next Tuesday, Mrs. Ford will travel to Plymouth, Mass., to open a bicentennial exhibit labeled "Remember the Ladies: Women in America 1750-1815."

to demonstrate that he has a "high probability of rehabilitation."

Those who are successfully rehabilitated will be rewarded by a dismissal of charges and expungement of the case record. The law also leaves open the possibility of conditional probation for some drug offenses, contingent on participation in a treatment program.

The crime of possession with intent to sell has been abolished in the new language. But Asst. Atty. Gen. Michael R. Szolosi says prosecution of potential pushers will be made easier by sections setting penalties for packaging, preparing for shipment or transporting narcotics.

Also gone is a section of the law that implied guilt by association by making it a crime to frequent a place where drug abuse occurs.

Most of the penalties for possession or sale will be on a scale based on the amount and danger of the drug.

Drugs will be classified in five categories. Schedule 1 drugs—heroin, cocaine and LSD, for instance—are considered to be extremely dangerous with no legitimate medical use. The other end of the spectrum is Schedule 5—"Drugs with low potential for abuse that are sold over the counter."

Large drug caches will be termed

"bulk" amounts, the determination varying with the particular narcotic substance. With marijuana, bulk means seven ounces. With heroin or cocaine, lighter substances, bulk is .35 ounces, or 25 doses. The penalty for simple possession is a mandatory 1½ years in prison on first offense.

The most severe penalties are reserved for those who try to hook another on narcotics. The law calls this "corrupting" with drugs—a device often used by pushers to create new markets, according to the attorney general. This offense means seven years behind bars for first offenders and 12 years for repeaters.

The pendulum of justice swings in the opposite direction for casual marijuana smokers and other users of "soft drugs." Since last year, possession of less than 3½ ounces of pot has meant a maximum penalty of a $100 fine with no minimum and no escalation for repeat offenses and no criminal record.

Here is a sample of some of the new absolute minimum prison terms:

—First offense possession of a bulk amount of heroin, LSD or cocaine, 1½ years; three years for second offense.

—First offense for sale of bulk amounts of the same drug, three years; five for second offense.

—First offense on financing drug traffic or operating a drug ring, seven years, with 10 years for a second offender.

Graham-Rihl Wedding Held At Trinity Lutheran Church

MRS. DAN ANDREW GRAHAM

Miss Carla Ann Rihl became the bride of Mr. Dan Andrew Graham May 28 at 7:30 p.m. The double ring ceremony was performed by Pastor Carl G. Zehner at Trinity Lutheran Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rihl, 113 Wilson Ave. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Graham, 389 Northridge Rd.

The church was decorated with altar vases of red carnations, white gladiolas and baby's breath. The piano was graced with an arrangement of miniature red carnations and baby's breath and the pews were marked with white bows and greenery.

Mrs. Tom Downing provided organ music and Mrs. David Huffer sang "We've Only Just Begun," "Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her mother and father.

The bride was attired in a gown of white silk organza trimmed with white lace over sheer organza and soft ruffles bordering the shoulders edged with lace. The A-line skirt flowed into a wide lace-trimmed flounce.

Her collar was made of Cameo lace with lace over sheer organza and soft ruffles bordering the shoulders edged with lace. The A-line skirt flowed into a wide lace-trimmed flounce.

The train was chapel length with a chapel length veil of white silk illusion attached to a bridal crown of venise lace.

She wore a diamond pendant necklace, a gift of the bridegroom, and she carried a white pearl Bible brought to her from the Holy Land by a cousin, Mrs. Harold Wolfe. The bride's bouquet was composed of red roses and baby's breath with red ribbon.

Miss Diana Caruso, friend of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a Navy blue dotted swiss voile A-line gown, with a ruffled neckline bordering the shoulders with a wide ruffled flounce on the skirt trimmed in venise lace and white grosgrain ribbon at the waist. She wore a white picture hat, short white gloves and pearl earrings, a gift of the bride.

She carried a white basket filled with red and white carnations, greenery and baby's breath with red ribbon streamers.

Misses Cindy and Lissa Rihl, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Gary Sowers, sister of the bridegroom served as bridesmaids. They were dressed similar to the maid of honor.

Mr. Greg Williams served his friend as best man. Mr. Randy Dresbach, Mr. Mike Sowers and Mr. Gary Sowers, brother-in-law of the groom were ushers.

The bride's mother was dressed in light pink polyester crepe floor-length gown with long sleeves and a silver buckle at the waist. She carried silver accessories and wore a red rosebud corsage.

The bridegroom's mother wore a violet chiffon over taffeta floor-length gown with a V-neckline and a cape over the shoulders with an orchid panel down the front of the dress. She also carried silver accessories and wore a pink rosebud corsage.

A reception was held in the church parish house immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was decorated with a white linen tablecloth, crystal candle holders flanked with red carnations and green fern. The four-tiered wedding cake was decorated with red hearts, white bells and cupids with red carnations and greenery surrounding it.

Hostesses were the Misses Cindy Sims, Pat Becker, Cathy Royster and Cindy Hughes. Mrs. Mike Sowers

Jason Makes It On Time

RELAXING AFTER DRAMA — Mrs. Michael Kitchen gets a more relaxed account of the birth of her newest son, Jason, from Ohio State Highway Patrol Sgt. C.E. Gross, and Scioto Twp. Emergency Squad personnel Frankie Parmenter and Eileen Gillette.

"It was close," said Scioto Twp. Emergency Squadswoman Frankie Parmenter, who watched Jason Benjamin Kitchen make his entrance into the world Sunday afternoon.

OSU To Get Investigation Clearinghouse

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The school of journalism at Ohio State University says it plans to open a nationwide clearinghouse for investigative reporters early next year. Prof. Paul Williams will direct the program, which he says has a sizeable commitment from the university. OSU officials, he said, have agreed to provide space and personnel for the project, which is to be fully operational by July 1977.

The project has evolved over the last two years and was announced over the weekend in Indianapolis, Ind. Williams said the idea for the center grew out of the formation of Investigative Reporters and Editors, Inc., formed a year ago at a meeting in Reston, Va.

"The primary purpose of the center is educational. We want to help people in the business to do better work. For example, if a reporter in Kokomo, Ind., is working on Federal Housing Authority fraud, we can direct him to several investigations already done and put him up about 10 steps on the ladder," Williams said.

The professor said Ohio State University's choice to house the center grew out of his interest in investigative reporting, the school's course on the subject and its heavy curriculum of public service reporting. The center, he said, may acquire a computer terminal hooked up to the New York Times information bank which would expand the university's already large source library for journalists.

It was close, too. Jason could have made his grand entrance at the Darbyville home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kitchen. Or he could have opted for the back of the speeding, siren-screaming Scioto Twp. Emergency ambulance.

Jason's choice was not announced until 12:28 p.m. Sunday, just as his mother, Marguerite, was being carried from the ambulance to Berger Hospital's maternity ward.

From then it was easy for the eight-pound, 6½-ounce youngster, who will take his place in a few days with five other Kitchen children.

The drama of the minutes before his birth was highlighted by very close cooperation between the Scioto Squad, Ohio State Highway Patrol, and Berger Hospital employees.

OSP Sgt. C. E. Gross, manning the telephones at Post 65's headquarters on Route 23, received a "panic" call from Kitchen, who dutifully explained that his wife was in the process of having a baby and that he could not reach his family doctor. However, Kitchen could not give the address of his mobile home, either.

It was decided that Kitchen and Sgt. Gross would meet on the Scioto River Bridge east of Darbyville.

So, Sgt. Gross contacted the Scioto Twp. Emergency Squad in Commercial Point and included them in on the rendezvous.

Squad Chief Donald Thrasher, Mrs. Parmenter, and her husband, Capt. Chuck Parmenter met Sgt. Gross on Route 316 and, as they approached the bridge, Kitchen pulled from the berm and led the way to his house.

"The baby hadn't crowned when we arrived," said Mrs. Parmenter, "although we knew we had little time to waste because the fluid sack had broken."

But, all turned out well for the mother and child, who are continuing to rest at Berger despite Mrs. Kitchen's strong desire to return home to the rest of her family.

It is the second near-birth for the Scioto Twp. Squad, a volunteer organization which began in 1961.

For Sgt. Gross, recalling the lockerroom stories of a friend who delivered a child along the Ohio Turnpike, the incident keyed his respect for the Scioto Twp. Squad and all other emergency squads in general. He saluted their "efficiency" and "Conscience."

It seems Darbyville, which is protected by the Scioto Twp. Fire Department, has not contracted with the emergency squad. The squad would not have been required to go to the aid of Mrs. Kitchen.

OSU To Get Investigation Clearinghouse

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The school of journalism at Ohio State University says it plans to open a nationwide clearinghouse for investigative reporters early next year. Prof. Paul Williams will direct the program, which he says has a sizeable commitment from the university. OSU officials, he said, have agreed to provide space and personnel for the project, which is to be fully operational by July 1977.

The project has evolved over the last two years and was announced over the weekend in Indianapolis, Ind.

Williams said the idea for the center grew out of the formation of Investigative Reporters and Editors, Inc., formed a year ago at a meeting in Reston, Va.

"The primary purpose of the center is educational. We want to help people in the business to do better work. For example, if a reporter in Kokomo, Ind., is working on Federal Housing Authority fraud, we can direct him to several investigations already done and put him up about 10 steps on the ladder," Williams said.

The professor said Ohio State University's choice to house the center grew out of his interest in investigative reporting, the school's course on the subject and its heavy curriculum of public service reporting.

The center, he said, may acquire a computer terminal hooked up to the New York Times information bank which would expand the university's already large source library for journalists.

U.S.-Spanish Pact To Bring Freedom?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate hopes its ratification of a military bases treaty with Spain will spur the creation of democratic institutions in the Mediterranean monarchy.

A year-to-year funding clause in the treaty will allow Congress to monitor Spain's progress.

The Senate voted 84 to 11 Monday to ratify the five-year treaty which gives the new regime a $1.2-billion package of loans and grants.

An accompanying resolution urged the new government of King Juan Carlos to move Spain away from the Fascist dictatorship it has known for more than three decades under the late Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

"Franco's demise has opened real possibilities for progressive change," Sen. Richard Clark, D-Iowa, said Monday. He noted that some in the Senate fought early ratification of the treaty pending evidence that a rebirth of democratic institutions had been achieved in Spain.

The U.S. decision to maintain bases in Spain while the Franco dictatorship was still strong "has for years been a source of dismay to Americans concerned to see that the United States does not align itself with tyrants in the name of defending freedom," Clark said.

"If it is true that we erred in the past by concerning ourselves too little with the suppressing of Spanish liberty, it is equally true that we cannot compensate now in a single stroke by demanding democratic revolution in Spain overnight.

"If by approving this agreement we choose to continue as Spain's tentative but cooperative partner, I believe the United States will have the opportunity to serve as an energetic and enthusiastic advocate of Spanish democracy."

In its ratification resolution, the Senate spelled out its intention to subject the monies called for by the treaty to the annual congressional appropriation process.

"Not only does this meet our constitutional responsibilities but it will give us a chance to review, on an annual basis, developments taking place within Spain," said Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

"I for one will give my strong support to each year's appropriation so long as Spain continues its evolution to democratic life."

Upstarts Produce Olympic Fireworks

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — A pair of upstarts produced fireworks, some old veterans performed as expected and for the first time in three days of the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Trials the winners, not the losers, drew attention.

Edwin Moses, a 20-year-old junior at Morehouse College in Atlanta, shattered the American record in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles and Brenda Morehead rocketed to a near record in the 100 Monday.

And veteran rick Wohluter gained another Olympic trip with an expected 800 victory.

Bureau Set To Upgrade Ohio Jails

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction has announced the establishment of a new division designed to work with local officials in upgrading city and county jails.

Nick J. Sanborn, administrator of the new Bureau of Adult Detention Facilities and Services, said the agency will first develop minimum standards of operation that can be applied to jails statewide.

"Standards governing operation of the facilities are currently in existence in most cases," Sanborn said, "but they have been established by local government agencies and vary widely from city to city and county to county."

He said the new standards will attempt to coordinate the work of agencies involved in jail responsibilities and to define minimum levels of conditions and operations.

Sanborn said one purpose of the new bureau will be to avoid situations which have developed in other states in which the federal courts have assumed operational control of jails because of lawsuits over the condition of facilities.

He said the bureau will not be a regulatory agency.

"Our goal will be to aid local officials in obtaining the technical assistance that may be needed to bring jail operations in line with the new standards," he said.

Ad Restrictions Called Unfair By Brown

CLEVELAND (AP) — Atty. Gen. William J. Brown told a Federal Trade Commission hearing Monday that advertising restrictions on eyeglass costs were "anti-consumer and probably unconstitutional."

The FTC hearings are being held on a proposed rule which would forbid price advertising restrictions on glasses. Brown told the hearing board that at least 14 Ohio cities now have such advertising restrictions.

Monday produced none of the big surprises or controversy which marked the first two days of this eight-day competition, when such stars as sprinter Steve Williams, pole vaulter Dan Ripley and shot putter Terry Albritton failed to make the team.

Miss Morehead, 19, a freshman at Tennessee State, burst from the starting block and sped to the finish line in 11.08, a shade off the world record of 11.04 set three weeks ago by West Germany's Ingrid Helden.

"I felt good," she said. "I didn't think it (her time) would be that good." It was the second fastest clocking ever by an American, just off the 11.07 U.S. mark set in 1968 by Wyomia Tyus.

Second was Chandra Cheeseborough, another newcomer and, at 17, the youngest U.S. Olympic team member so far. The high school junior from Jacksonville, Fla., clocked 11.13 and was followed by Evelyn Ashford of UCLA in 11.22.

Wheeler, of San Diego State, the NCAA hurdles champ, said, "It was a very rough race. I dreamed about this and I can't believe it."

Shine, of Penn State, said, "When Bolding went by me I thought it's now or never; I gotta do it or die, so I just poured out my guts."

Wohluter unleashed his famous kick in the stretch and earned his second trip to the Olympics with a time of 1:44.78.

James Robinson, 21, who won the AAU title a week ago, slipped on the second turn and dropped back to last place midway through the race. But he moved outside and exploded nearing the tape, finishing second in 1:45.86.

Mark Enyeart of the Utah State Track Club struggled past Villanova's Mark Belger in the last 10 meters to run 1:46.28 and round out the U.S. team in the two-lap race.

Earlier in the day, the favored trio of Mac Wilkins, John Powell and Jay Silvester all marched into the Olympics.

Wilkins, owner of the world record, responded to a hometown crowd and flung the discus 224 feet, 2 inches, earning his first Olympic berth.

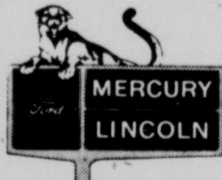

The 6-foot-5, 255-pound former University of Oregon star now competing for Pacific Coast Club, set the world mark of 232-6 a month ago.

The Dunlap Co., in business in Williamsport for 44 years, is offering a series of "Harvest Specials" now.

These include the Massey Ferguson 760 and 750 combines, the giant round baler and conventional square balers.

Big acreage farming calls for big capacity harvesting and Massey Ferguson equipment meets the challenge.

The MF 760 and MF 750 combines do more than that. They handle grain with a gentle touch to keep market quality high and dockage low.

The buyer has the option of choosing a 540 cubic inch Perkins diesel, or a 354 cubic inch turbo charged Perkins diesel for the MF 760 and a 372 cubic inch or 354 cubic inch Perkins diesel for the MF 750.

Quick attach heads enable the farmer to switch from corn head to table or from table to table in a matter of minutes. Hydraulics do all the work.

Massey Ferguson's giant round baler turns out firm, fully packed 1,500 pound bales. Designed and built with simplicity and ruggedness it has the speed and capacity to get the hay crop put up as quickly as possible.

Massey Ferguson square balers available at Dunlap Co. are the 124 twine baler, the 126 wire baler and the MF 12 baler. The MF 22 baler thrower makes baling a one-man job.

In addition to the harvesting equipment Massey Ferguson builds the 428 cultivators in four, six and eight row models to get the farmer over the fields quickly.

The Dunlap Co. also offers a complete line of tractors. In addition to Massey Ferguson equipment, the Dunlap Co. also holds the local franchise for New Idea equipment. Kewanee and Bush Hog equipment, gravity beds, augers, elevators, tillage tools, running gears and an excellent line of farm drain tile and galvanized farm drain pipe.

The heart of the firm is its service department, capable of making the most major repairs to any equipment. A complete line of parts are maintained in stock so the firm can assure farmers there will be a minimum of lost time during harvest season in case of a breakdown of equipment, be it major or minor in nature.

Butler Gives You a Choice!

FARMSTED II—Straight Wall

Butler Farmsted Buildings

There was a time when a farmer's choice of pre-fabricated farm buildings didn't include a low-priced, well-engineered, all-metal structure.

Then, in 1970, Butler gave farmers this choice with Farmsted I (pictured below) — a sturdy, durable, functional, attractive all-metal farm building, at prices competitive to pole barns.

And farmers no longer had to pay for more or settle for less than they needed in a farm building.

Now, Butler offers you another choice — Farmsted II (pictured above). Farmsted II brings you most of the engineering advantages of Farmsted I, at just a few more dollars. Plus the benefits of straight wall construction, including large double slide doors in either or both side-walls.

Options include a variety of color finishes, windows, walk-in doors, floor-to-ceiling Lite* Panels for plenty of natural daylight. All Farm-sted buildings are available in a broad range of widths, heights and lengths — and all Farmsteds are adaptable to grain storage.

The choice is yours! Farmsted I — the "best seller" all-metal farm building — still offers a whole lot of building for a little less money than Farmsted II. Slope wall Farmsted I or straight wall Farmsted II, you can't go wrong. See us now for details.

Dunlap Co. Offers Big Capacity Harvesting Equipment

MF 760 COMBINE

FORAGE WAGONS

The Dunlap Co., in business in Williamsport for 44 years, is offering a series of "Harvest Specials" now.

These include the Massey Ferguson 760 and 750 combines, the giant round baler and conventional square balers.

Big acreage farming calls for big capacity harvesting and Massey Ferguson equipment meets the challenge.

The MF 760 and MF 750 combines do more than that. They handle grain with a gentle touch to keep market quality high and dockage low.

The buyer has the option of choosing a 540 cubic inch Perkins diesel, or a 354 cubic inch turbo charged Perkins diesel for the MF 760 and a 372 cubic inch or 354 cubic inch Perkins diesel for the MF 750.

Quick attach heads enable the farmer to switch from corn head to table or from table to table in a matter of minutes. Hydraulics do all the work.

Massey Ferguson's giant round baler turns out firm, fully packed 1,500 pound bales. Designed and built with simplicity and ruggedness it has the speed and capacity to get the hay crop put up as quickly as possible.

Massey Ferguson square balers available at Dunlap Co. are the 124 twine baler, the 126 wire baler and the MF 12 baler. The MF 22 baler thrower makes baling a one-man job.

In addition to the harvesting equipment Massey Ferguson builds the 428 cultivators in four, six and eight row models to get the farmer over the fields quickly.

The Dunlap Co. also offers a complete line of tractors. In addition to Massey Ferguson equipment, the Dunlap Co. also holds the local franchise for New Idea equipment. Kewanee and Bush Hog equipment, gravity beds, augers, elevators, tillage tools, running gears and an excellent line of farm drain tile and galvanized farm drain pipe.

The heart of the firm is its service department, capable of making the most major repairs to any equipment. A complete line of parts are maintained in stock so the firm can assure farmers there will be a minimum of lost time during harvest season in case of a breakdown of equipment, be it major or minor in nature.

PCC Is Second At SOGA Tourney

Pickaway County Country Club placed second in the Southeastern Ohio Golf Association Tournament held last weekend at the Athens Country Club.

Local member Bruce Helwage picked up medalist honors as he fired a first round 72 and shot 73 for a total 145 score.

Jim McKenzie, Ironton, was runner-up, five strokes back at 150.

Team honors went to Marietta as its members carded identical 461's to take a low score of 922.

PCC matched Marietta's first round but shot a 475 on the second set to finish 14 back of the winner with 936.

Gallipolis took third with 951. Athens had a first round score of 462 but finished fourth with 952.

Other finishers were Ironton, Hocking Hills, Chillicothe, and Fairgreens. Cambridge and Lancaster also participated.

For PCC, Steve Helwage was runner-up with 76-77 — 153. Following him were Rick Macklin, 73-81 — 154; Dick Wilcox, 80-83 — 163; Bud Hritz, 84-81 — 165; Brent Bell, 82-84 — 166; Loyal McDonald, 78-89 — 167; Larry Oiler, 85-82 — 167; Larry McFadden, 94-81 — 175; and Bob Moon who shot a first round 94 before withdrawing.

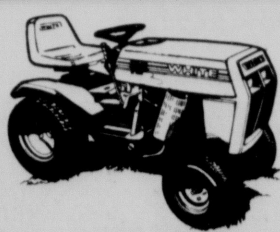

In the Friday Pro-Am held at Athens, Steve Helwage and Rick Spire placed 6 under par with a 66. Second went to Joe Cardenas and Cliff Rheim of Lancaster who were 4 under at 68. Four teams tied for third at 69 including Jim Stemble and Bruce Helwage, and Barry Fisher and Dan Hindy.

Twice professional Coach of the Year, in 1969 with the American Football League and the following season in the National Football League.

A national college championship and Coach of the Year in 1942 at Ohio State.

Six consecutive Ohio high school football titles at Massillon and 80 victories in 90 games, including a victory string of 33 games.

In the spring of 1953, Alva (Bob) Holloman of the St. Louis Browns pitched a no-hitter against the Philadelphia Athletics in his first major league start. Holloman finished the season with a 3-7 record.

Mike Kidd Returns For Charity Newsies

MIKE KIDD

In 1974, a "Kidd" from Fort Worth, Texas, named Mike achieved instant stardom in the motorcycle racing world by winning the Charity Newsies 10-mile championship race here in Columbus at Ohio State Fairgrounds.

His fame was short-lived, though. Less than two months later, Mike Kidd was lying at home in a body cast with a shattered left leg following a disastrous crash at Santa Fe Speedway. Despite missing much of the '74 season, Kidd finished fifth in the Grand National point standings and was looking forward to headlining the Norton-Triumph factory team the next season.

Lady luck was not riding with him early in the '75 season when he rebroke his leg, weakened by calcium deposits. Again, he began the slow road to recovery. His first race last year was ironically enough Santa Fe and again bad luck struck. He broke the same leg for a second time.

Recovered, later in the season, he took the checkered flag at Terre Haute, Indiana and this victory won him a starting position in the AMA "Race of Champions", filmed by ABC Wide World of Sports at Louisville

Downs in Kentucky. Riding without brakes, Mike Kidd bested the field led by Gary Scott and the Harley-Davidson team to climax a remarkable comeback.

Mike Kidd will return to the scene of his Columbus triumph on the half-mile dirt oval at Ohio State Fairgrounds on Sunday, June 27 for the 33rd Annual Charity Newsies AMA Camel Pro Series championship to try for his second Newsies' trophy. He'll have championship competition from AMA Grand National Champion Gary Scott from Springfield who also will be going for his second Newsies' victory. Scott's win here in '75 was the turning point in his bid for the title against two-time champion Kenny Roberts.

Two other former Newsies' winners, Mert Lawill and Dave Sehl, will be among the field of top riders entered for the 8-event race program. Sehl will try for a second Newsies win and Lawill will be going for his third.

Time trials start at noon. The first race is at 2 p.m. Tickets will be available at the gate.

The Newsies will use proceeds from the race to purchase clothing for needy school children of Franklin County.

Piranha Swimmers Prepare For League Title Defense

The Circleville "Piranha" swim team, preparing for the defense of their Mt. Pleasant League championship, attended the Chevington Woods Invitational in Pickerington Monday.

Coaches Jim Shea and Sue McCrady took 33 members of the local swim team to the meet and captured 47 awards. They took 10-firsts, 12-second, nine-thirds, five-fourths, eight-fifths and three-sixths.

Ann Titus was the top swimmer for the Piranhas as she competed in the 15 to 18 age group. She won the 200 IM, 100 butterfly and 100 backstroke.

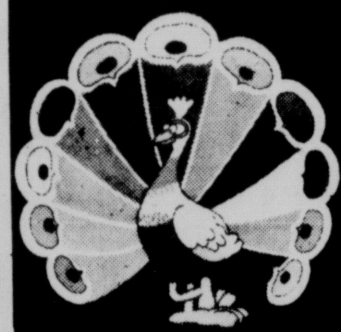

Other first place winners were: Cindy Sparks, girls 13-14 age group, 50 freestyle and 100 butterfly; Eugene Justus, boys 13-14, 200 IM; Mike Duvall, boys eight and under; 25 butterfly; Tim McCrady, boys nine-10, 50 breaststroke; Boys eight and under relay team 100-yard medley, D. Mets, M. Duvall, M. Stevenson, J. Priest; boys 11-12 200-yard medley relay team, L. Huskey, M. Swope, T. Beck, M. McCrady.

Head coach Jim Shea stated he was pleased with the performances of a good number of the local swimmers,

"But", Shea said, "I certainly am glad this was not a dual meet with someone like Columbus Hilltop, Lancaster Country Club or Chillicothe."

"Man for man", Shea continued, "we can hold our own with almost any team in the league but we are doomed to suffer tremendously depth wise. However we still have two days to prepare for our first dual meet next Thursday with Portsmouth and another five days to prepare for Hilltop. In that length of time, I hope to make a lot of changes and I hope they are all for the good," Shea concluded.

Circleville's first meet in league competition will be 5:30 p.m. at Ted Lewis Park with the Portsmouth club. The Piranhas will be at Columbus Hilltop July 1.

SPARKY BANISHES
Billingham To Bullpen

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson has assigned Jack Billingham to the bullpen to regain his composure, but the right-hander says "I expected it." Billingham's record is 5-5 with an earned run average of 5.05. He has not won since May 23, suffering two losses in that time.

In his last five starts, Billingham has gone 24 1-3 innings, allowing 34 hits and 24 runs, 20 of them earned.

PCC Is Second At SOGA Tourney

Pickaway County Country Club placed second in the Southeastern Ohio Golf Association Tournament held last weekend at the Athens Country Club.

Local member Bruce Helwagen picked up medalist honors as he fired a first round 72 and shot 73 for a total 145 score.

Jim McKenzie, Ironton, was runner-up, five strokes back at 150.

Team honors went to Marietta as its members carded identical 461's to take a low score of 922.

PCC matched Marietta's first round but shot a 475 on the second set to finish 14 back of the winner with 936.

Gallipolis took third with 951. Athens had a first round score of 462 but finished fourth with 952.

Other finishers were Ironton, Hocking Hills, Chillicothe, and Fairgreens. Cambridge and Lancaster also participated.

For PCC, Steve Helwagen was runner-up with 76-77 — 153. Following him were Rick Macklin, 73-81 — 154; Dick Wilcox, 80-83 — 163; Bud Hritz, 84-81 — 165; Brent Bell, 82-84 — 166; Loyal McDonald, 78-89 — 167; Larry Oiler, 85-82 — 167; Larry McFadden, 94-81 — 175; and Bob Moon who shot a first round 94 before withdrawing.

In the Friday Pro-Am held at Athens, Steve Helwagen and Rick Spires placed 6 under par with a 66. Second went to Joe Cardenas and Cliff Rheim of Lancaster who were 4 under at 68. Four teams tied for third at 69 including Jim Stemble and Bruce Helwagen, and Barry Fisher and Dan Hindy.

Paul Brown Honored In Massillon

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — More than 50 years ago, railroader Lester Brown begged Dave Stewart, Massillon's football coach, to take his scrawny son as a varsity candidate. "Yeah, I'll take him—as a water boy," snapped Stewart.

Paul Brown, a 120-pound quarterback, soon convinced the Massillon coach he could play, launching a spectacular career that spans six decades.

"Brown even outthought me in strategy at times," remembered Stewart, one of those who will salute the brilliant innovator at a Massillon banquet tonight.

More than 700 will be on hand for the affair, the climax of Paul Brown Day in this northeastern Ohio city of 32,700.

The highlights of the day were the renaming of the school's 22,000-seat football field as Paul Brown Tiger Stadium and the presentation of the city's key to the one-time Massillon prep standout.

The 68-year-old native Ohioan helped found two current National Football League franchises, the Cleveland Browns and the Cincinnati Bengals.

His 41-year coaching record was 351 triumphs, 134 defeats and 16 ties.

Brown quit as the Bengals' coach after the 1975 season and continues as the club's general manager.

Bill Johnson, his coaching replacement, is one of a flock of former associates who will help Massillon fans celebrate the festivities for Brown.

Among the Norwalk, Ohio, native's achievements were:

—Eleven division and six league championships in pro football, eight of the division titles with the Cleveland Browns, the team he helped found in 1946.

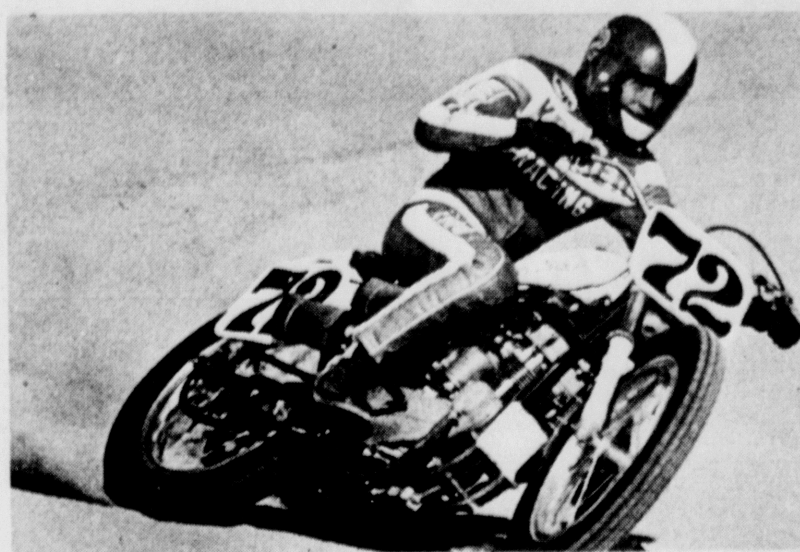

—Twice professional Coach of the Year, in 1969 with the American Football League and the following season in the National Football League.

—A national college championship and Coach of the Year in 1942 at Ohio State.

—Six consecutive Ohio high school football titles at Massillon and 80 victories in 90 games, including a victory string of 33 games.

In the spring of 1953, Alva (Bobo) Holloman of the St. Louis Browns pitched a no-hitter against the Philadelphia Athletics in his first major league start. Holloman finished the season with a 3-7 record.

Mike Kidd Returns For Charity Newsies

MIKE KIDD

In 1974, a "Kidd" from Fort Worth, Texas, named Mike achieved instant stardom in the motorcycle racing world by winning the Charity Newsies 10-mile championship race here in Columbus at Ohio State Fairgrounds.

His fame was short-lived, though. Less than two months later, Mike Kidd was lying at home in a body cast with a shattered left leg following a disastrous crash at Santa Fe Speedway.

Despite missing much of the '74 season, Kidd finished fifth in the Grand National point standings and was looking forward to headlining the Norton-Triumph factory team the next season.

Lady luck was not riding with him early in the '75 season when he rebroke his leg, weakened by calcium deposits. Again, he began the slow road to recovery. His first race last year was ironically enough Santa Fe and again bad luck struck. He broke the same leg for a second time.

Recovered, later in the season, he took the checkered flag at Terre Haute, Indiana and this victory won him a starting position in the AMA "Race of Champions", filmed by ABC Wide World of Sports at Louisville

Downs in Kentucky. Riding without brakes, Mike Kidd bested the field led by Gary Scott and the Harley-Davidson team to climax a remarkable comeback.

Mike Kidd will return to the scene of his Columbus triumph on the half-mile dirt oval at Ohio State Fairgrounds on Sunday, June 27 for the 33rd Annual Charity Newsies AMA Camel Pro Series championship to try for his second Newsies' trophy. He'll have championship competition from AMA Grand National Champion Gary Scott from Springfield who also will be going for his second Newsies' victory. Scott's win here in '75 was the turning point in his bid for the title against two-time champion Kenny Roberts.

Two other former Newsies' winners, Mert Lawill and Dave Sehl, will be among the field of top riders entered for the 8-event race program. Sehl will try for a second Newsies win and Lawill will be going for his third.

Time trials start at noon. The first race is at 2 p.m. Tickets will be available at the gate.

The Newsies will use proceeds from the race to purchase clothing for needy school children of Franklin County.

Piranha Swimmers Prepare For League Title Defense

The Circleville "Piranha" swim team, preparing for the defense of their Mt. Pleasant League championship, attended the Chevington Woods Invitational in Pickerington Monday.

Coaches Jim Shea and Sue McCrady took 33 members of the local swim team to the meet and captured 47 awards. They took 10-firsts, 12-seconds, nine-thirds, five-fourths, eight-fifths and three-sixths.

Ann Titus was the top swimmer for the Piranhas as she competed in the 15 to 18 age group. She won the 200 IM, 100 butterfly and 100 backstroke.

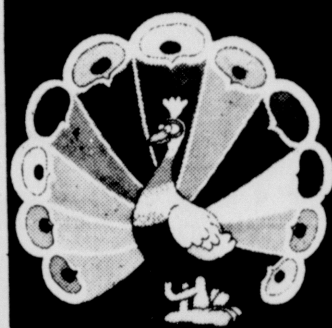

Other first place winners were: Cindy Sparks, girls 13-14 age group, 50 freestyle and 100 butterfly; Eugene Justus, boys 13-14, 200 IM; Mike Duvall, boys eight and under; 25 butterfly; Tim McCrady, boys nine-10, 50 breaststroke; Boys eight and under relay team 100-yard medley, D. Mets, M. Duvall, M. Stevenson, J. Priest; boys 11-12 200-yard medley relay team, L. Huskey, M. Swope, T. Beck, M. McCrady.

Head coach Jim Shea stated he was pleased with the performances of a good number of the local swimmers.

"But", Shea said, "I certainly am glad this was not a dual meet with someone like Columbus Hilltop, Lancaster Country Club or Chillicothe.

"Man for man", Shea continued, "we can hold our own with almost any team in the league but we are doomed to suffer tremendously depth wise. However we still have two days to prepare for our first dual meet next Thursday with Portsmouth and another five days to prepare for Hilltop. In that length of time, I hope to make a lot of changes and I hope they are all for the good," Shea concluded.

Circleville's first meet in league competition will be 5:30 p.m. at Ted Lewis Park with the Portsmouth club. The Piranhas will be at Columbus Hilltop July 1.

Sparky Banishes Billingham To Bullpen

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson has assigned Jack Billingham to the bullpen to regain his composure, but the right-hander says "I expected it."

Billingham's record is 5-5 with an earned run average of 5.05. He has not won since May 23, suffering two losses in that time.

In his last five starts, Billingham has gone 24 1-3 innings, allowing 34 hits and 24 runs, 20 of them earned.

Home Runs Give Reds Win

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
In Cincinnati, it was Souvenir Night. And in Atlanta, it was just another night at the Office.

Cincinnati's fans — two of them, anyway — went home with home run balls Monday night, compliments of Ken Griffey and George Foster, who unloaded their blasts on Doug Rau's first two pitches in the sixth inning.

The result was a 3-1 victory over Los Angeles that boosted the Reds' National League West lead to 4½ games over the Dodgers.

Atlanta's fans — all of them — got another taste of what they've gotten used to lately, namely Rowland Office's streaking.

No, not that kind. The kind with a bat. He's gotten at least one hit in his last 26 games, the longest in the league this year. He got four of them Monday night and, after the last, he trotted home on Jimmy Wynn's tie-breaking homer in the seventh inning that propelled the Braves past Houston 11-9.

In the rest of the NL, Philadelphia widened its East Division lead over idle Pittsburgh to 8½ games by pounding Montreal 8-3, San Diego crept within half a game of the Dodgers in the West by beating San Francisco 6-3 and St. Louis mauled the New York Mets 7-2.

As Foster stepped to the plate in Cincinnati in the bottom of the sixth, the fans' cheers were only beginning to die down following Griffey's fourth home run, a mammoth blast to right field. He brought them up again with

Carew's Average Down, Hopes High

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Where are you, Rod Carew?

The man generally considered the best hitter in baseball isn't among the Top Ten hitters in the American League onethird of the way through the season, but he's hardly worried. Carew was hitting .309 through games of Sunday for the Minnesota Twins — 19 points below his lifetime average and almost 100 points below where he was a year ago at this time. It was also nearly 40 points behind Detroit's Ron LeFlore, who was leading the AL.

"I'm hitting the ball," Carew said. "For a while this spring I didn't feel real good at the plate, the bat wasn't comfortable in my hands and I wondered if playing a new position was affecting my hitting."

The 30-year-old Carew was moved to first base this year by new Manager Gene Mauch after nine seasons at second base.

"Sure, the switch is taking time," continued Carew, who has developed into a dependable, if not standout first baseman.

"Listen, I don't have anything to prove to anybody," Carew said. "Sure, I'd like to win the title again, but if I don't, I don't."

He has won four straight batting championships and five over-all while building the highest lifetime average among active players.

"Let's see where everyone is at the end of the year," said Carew, who was second in the major leagues with 31 stolen bases. "Some of the balls that have been caught will start to drop in. Everything has a way of evening out in this game."

In many respects though, Carew is enjoying one of his most remarkable years.

Carew, who has missed an average of 33 games a year in his career, has only missed one game. He's given the Twins their best defense at first base since Vic Power played the position in the early 1960s, and his baserunning has been responsible for much of Minnesota's limited success.

Calvin Griffith shelled out $600,000 in spring training to sign his only superstar for three seasons and Griffith feels it has been a worthy investment.

"Certainly he's a $200,000 ballplayer," says Griffith. "If there's such a thing as a $200,000 player today, Carew has to be it."

Cesar Cedeño hit safely in 18 straight games for the Houston Astros this spring then came up with an injury.

his 13th homer, a shot deep into the left field stands.

Griffey's homer gave rookie Pat Zachry all the lead he needed. He finished with a fourhitter for his sixth victory of the year and his third over the Dodgers.

Braves 11, Astros 9
Rowland Office's four hits raised his one-time dismal .193 batting average to a potent .308.

Office had a run-scoring double in the third inning, another one in a five-run fourth, a run-scoring single in the fifth and a single prior to Wynn's decisive homer in the seventh.

Phils 8, Expos 3
Philadelphia's Tom Underwood was belted all over the joint in the early innings, but held on just long enough to pick up a victory, thanks to Garry Maddox' two-run double and Bob Boone's two-run single in the fourth inning that wiped out Montreal's lead.

Greg Luzinski clouted his ninth homer of the season and the 100th of his big-league career one inning later.

Padres 6, Giants 3
Johnny Grubb and Willie Davis homered to carry the Padres past San Francisco. Grubb's, off John Montefusco, was a leadoff shot in the first inning. Davis' was a two-run job in the fifth that put San Diego ahead 5-0.

Dave Friesleben went the route, stopping the Giants on eight hits, including a two-run homer by pinch-hitter Garry Thomason in the seventh inning.

Cards 7, Mets 2
Lynn McGlothen turned in six innings of six-hit pitching and turned his bat to good use to lead the Cards over New York.

His single started a three-run second inning against Jerry Koosman and, in the fifth, he dumped a suicide squeeze to knock in another run.

Home Runs Give Reds Win

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

In Cincinnati, it was Souvenir Night. And in Atlanta, it was just another night at the Office.

Cincinnati's fans — two of them, anyway — went home with home run balls Monday night, compliments of Ken Griffey and George Foster, who unloaded their blasts on Doug Rau's first two pitches in the sixth inning.

The result was a 3-1 victory over Los Angeles that boosted the Reds' National League West lead to 4½ games over the Dodgers.

Atlanta's fans — all of them — got another taste of what they've gotten used to lately, namely Rowland Office's streaking.

No, not that kind. The kind with a bat. He's gotten at least one hit in his last 26 games, the longest in the league this year. He got four of them Monday night and, after the last, he trotted home on Jimmy Wynn's tie-breaking homer in the seventh inning that propelled the Braves past Houston 11-9.

In the rest of the NL, Philadelphia widened its East Division lead over idle Pittsburgh to 8½ games by pounding Montreal 8-3, San Diego crept within half a game of the Dodgers in the West by beating San Francisco 6-3 and St. Louis mauled the New York Mets 7-2.

As Foster stepped to the plate in Cincinnati in the bottom of the sixth, the fans' cheers were only beginning to die down following Griffey's fourth home run, a mammoth blast to right field. He brought them up again with his 13th homer, a shot deep into the left field stands.

Griffey's homer gave rookie Pat Zachry all the lead he needed. He finished with a fourhitter for his sixth victory of the year and his third over the Dodgers.

Braves 11, Astros 9

Rowland Office's four hits raised his one-time dismal .193 batting average to a potent .308.

Office had a run-scoring double in the third inning, another one in a five-run fourth, a run-scoring single in the fifth and a single prior to Wynn's decisive homer in the seventh.

Phils 8, Expos 3

Philadelphia's Tom Underwood was belted all over the joint in the early innings, but held on just long enough to pick up a victory, thanks to Garry Maddox' two-run double and Bob Boone's two-run single in the fourth inning that wiped out Montreal's lead.

Greg Luzinski clouted his ninth homer of the season and the 100th of his big-league career one inning later.

Padres 6, Giants 3

Johnny Grubb and Willie Davis homered to carry the Padres past San Francisco. Grubb's, off John Montefusco, was a leadoff shot in the first inning. Davis' was a two-run job in the fifth that put San Diego ahead 5-0.

Dave Friesleben went the route, stopping the Giants on eight hits, including a two-run homer by pinch-hitter Garry Thomason in the seventh inning.

Cards 7, Mets 2

Lynn McGlothen turned in six innings of six-hit pitching and turned his bat to good use to lead the Cards over New York.

His single started a three-run second inning against Jerry Koosman and, in the fifth, he dumped a suicide squeeze to knock in another run.

Carew's Average Down, Hopes High

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Where are you, Rod Carew?

The man generally considered the best hitter in baseball isn't among the Top Ten hitters in the American League onethird of the way through the season, but he's hardly worried.

Carew was hitting .309 through games of Sunday for the Minnesota Twins — 19 points below his lifetime average and almost 100 points below where he was a year ago at this time. It was also nearly 40 points behind Detroit's Ron LeFlore, who was leading the AL.

"I'm hitting the ball," Carew said. "For a while this spring I didn't feel real good at the plate, the bat wasn't comfortable in my hands and I wondered if playing a new position was affecting my hitting."

The 30-year-old Carew was moved to first base this year by new Manager Gene Mauch after nine seasons at second base.

"Sure, the switch is taking time," continued Carew, who has developed into a dependable, if not standout first baseman.

"Listen, I don't have anything to prove to anybody," Carew said. "Sure, I'd like to win the title again, but if I don't, I don't."

He has won four straight batting championships and five over-all while building the highest lifetime average among active players.

"Let's see where everyone is at the end of the year," said Carew, who was second in the major leagues with 31 stolen bases. "Some of the balls that have been caught will start to drop in. Everything has a way of evening out in this game."

In many respects though, Carew is enjoying one of his most remarkable years.

Carew, who has missed an average of 33 games a year in his career, has only missed one game. He's given the Twins their best defense at first base since Vic Power played the position in the early 1960s, and his baserunning has been responsible for much of Minnesota's limited success.

Calvin Griffith shelled out $600,000 in spring training to sign his only superstar for three seasons and Griffith feels it has been a worthy investment.

"Certainly he's a $200,000 ballplayer," says Griffith. "If there's such a thing as a $200,000 player today, Carew has to be it."

Cesar Cedeno hit safely in 18 straight games for the Houston Astros this spring then came up with an injury.

1. Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends, neighbors, and relatives for the cards, flowers, and acts of kindness, during the death of our beloved mother, Bertha Weninger.

Family
We wish to thank the Drs. Hedges, Father and Son, All the nurses, all the nurses aides, also the little girls who gave their time to see all patients have ice water. We wish to thank all the ministers for their prayers. We wish to thank all who sent cards, all who stopped to say hello, all that sent flowers, all that brought food after my wife passed away. Thanks to all.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): It may take longer than usual to put across your ideas, but you can accomplish much, nevertheless, and make a good impression. Be alert to the wiles of flatterers.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): You will not approve of all the action about but, in your own sphere, you can manage astutely and maintain equilibrium generally. Shun excitement.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Smart thinking and adroit action - innate with you - will be the order of the day. You can do a brilliant job in most areas through well-coordinated management.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Mixed influences will bring some advantages, some disadvantages. Study all the factors involved in any situation before making decisions.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Don't be tricked by the bizarre. Overactivity also unwise. In all situations, look below the surface.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Stellar influences beneficent. Take advantage by pressing on toward worthwhile objectives. Occupational matters especially favored.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Planetary influences somewhat restrictive. It may be necessary to go over certain pending business transactions more carefully - allowing for changing circumstances.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Don't trust to guesswork nor be lax in situations which require security treatment. A better day than you may anticipate if you are in there pitching.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Your individual touch, the right word at the right moment could mean the difference between a so-so day and a top-flight one. Many opportunities for advancing your interests.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Personal relationships under something of a cloud. Don't get caught in the middle of a dispute between associates. In fact, try to stay out of involvements with others completely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Many new interests indicated. Be ready to grasp every worthwhile cue and lead. The accomplishments of this day will be reflected in your tomorrows.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You're not always sure how others regard you. This could interfere with the presentation of your case - or wares. A confident attitude is the answer.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with a fine mind, a delightful personality and one of the most sympathetic and understanding natures in the entire zodiacal spectrum. You are studious and philosophical; have an insatiable curiosity as to what makes things "tick," so research and science are natural fields for your talents. Your humanitarian impulses, coupled with an unusual, manual dexterity also fit you for great success as a surgeon or inventor. You love music but would probably pursue it avocationally rather than as a full-time occupation. Writing, teaching and photography are careers to which you should give thorough consideration, but you will probably be happiest

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Richard Hatch thinks he'll like costarring in "The Streets of San Francisco," once he gets over his street fright.

Hatch, who's been around theaters and studios too long for stage fright, says even seasoned actors can get the jitters the first time they film on location.

"You really have to concentrate," says Hatch, waiting to begin his third day of shooting as Karl Malden's new young sidekick in the successful television series.

"People are always running up to you, asking for your autograph. You want to be nice to them, but sometimes it's hard."

Hatch begins his first season as "Streets" begins its fifth - a long run for a cop show. The cast and crew say on-location filming has a lot to do with its success. "San Francisco is an incredibly beautiful city," says Hatch, with the fervor of a convert.

Another reason is Academy Award winner Malden as Lt. Mike Stone, the tough-but-very tender old-time cop. And it remains to be seen how much of the show's success depended upon actor Michael Douglas and the buddy-cop chemistry he and Malden generated.

Officer Keller is returning to the campus as a professor of criminology because Douglas, who won an Oscar for his production of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," wants to do more movies.

Hatch will play Inspector Dan Robbins, Stone's new partner when Keller leaves.

The idea of killing Keller in the line of duty was considered briefly, but rejected. A spokesman for producer Quinn Martin said the company felt "there would be great public resentment if Michael Douglas got killed off."

With Keller as a professor at nearby University of California, the spokesman said, "We've left the door open for him to come back as a guest star."

So Hatch doesn't have to fill the shoes of a dead hero, but "replacing" the popular Michael Douglas-Steve Keller character won't be an easy act.

"I don't envy his position," says Malden. "It's the worst job possible, replacing someone else."

Hatch says he likes the character Dan Robbins - a modified eco-freak who won't drink coffee and likes his fruit juice fresh-squeezed.

He says it took some persuading to get him to play a cop.

"I thought a police show wouldn't lend itself to the type of character I could express myself through," he says tactfully.

Besides, he wasn't sold on the idea of a series - he had spent 2½ years in a running part on the daytime drama, "All My Children," and was anxious to avoid being tied down.

Karl Malden changed his mind.

"I was overwhelmed by him," Hatch says. "It was amazing to find a man who has worked as long as he has and retains so much of his energy, and his childlikeness, his lust for living."

Lodi, San Joaquin County, Calif., is reported to be the nation's Tokay grape center.

Local Workers Design New GE Lamp

LAMP BENDER — Wendy Welch, a Circline Bender Operator, applies her skills in the Circleville Lamp Plant. GE officials praised local workers for developing the new lamp.

FINISHED PRODUCT — Carl Faller and Abe Rihl, foreman, show the finished product, a 6½-inch Circline lamp designed to replace standard lamps in exit signs.

General Electric Co. officials say a new bulb developed at the Circleville Lamp Plant may go a long way in stopping the mass exit of fixture manufacturers in the exit sign business.

A pricing situation forced the creation of the 6½-inch Circline lamp, which is expected to bring GE back to the top of the exit sign business once again.

Lighted exit signs became big business last year because of new safety standards set by OSHA for an increased number of lighting signs in business and industrial concerns.

And last year's record is expected to be shattered in 1976 as fixture manufacturers are asking for about one million lamps.

Manufacturers had been purchasing their incandescent lamps, two per sign, from General Electric, until two other corporations, Sylvania and Westinghouse, lowered their price.

"That's what happened to our exit sign lamp business," said Howard Schmies, manager, market planning, original equipment manufacturers markets (OEM). "A pricing situation like that came up and we lost most of our market to Sylvania and Westinghouse."

Schmies pointed out that a few years ago General Electric had about 40 per cent of the home workshop fluorescent lamp original equipment business.

"Then Sylvania chopped two cents off our price and we lost the whole market segment," he said. "The worst of it is, those Sylvania lamps that go with the fixtures probably won't need replacing for about five years. Meanwhile they are nice little advertisements, right in the home, for our competition."

Competition from Japan and Europe is also very strong in the OEM market. Foreign manufacturers like the OEM market, because bids are put out once a year for large quantities, and they do not have to rely upon complex distribution systems in this country.

What can be done to meet this ever-growing competition? "We have to cut costs, of course," Schmies said, "and we have to give the customer something our competitors don't."

He held up one of the new 6½-inch diameter Circline fluorescent lamps. "For example," he said, "We hope this might get us back the exit sign business. It should create some new markets for us, too."

Switching from incandescent to fluorescent lamps will involve major changes in the fixture, but it will also create cost savings that the fixture manufacturer can pass on to his consumer.

"One of these Circline lamps replacing the present two incandescent lamps will save the user about 210 kilowatts or about $8.40 a year per unit," Schmies explained. "In a large plant, where there are hundreds of exit signs, that could add up to a substantial amount. Now it's our job to convince the fixture manufacturers that their customers will buy these more economically operated, energy saving signs."

Schmies explained the principal difference between selling replacement lamps and original equipment lamps. "Replacement lamps fill empty sockets; in OEM we have to create sockets." To help create these new sockets, he and his staff sometimes design and build prototype fixtures, then call upon fixture manufacturers explaining the advantages to them and their customers.

Several prototypes of ceiling and wall fixtures have been built around the new 6½-inch Circline lamp, for example.

Sometimes it works the other way around, and a fixture manufacturer will call upon GE's OEM market people, either for advice or with suggestions.

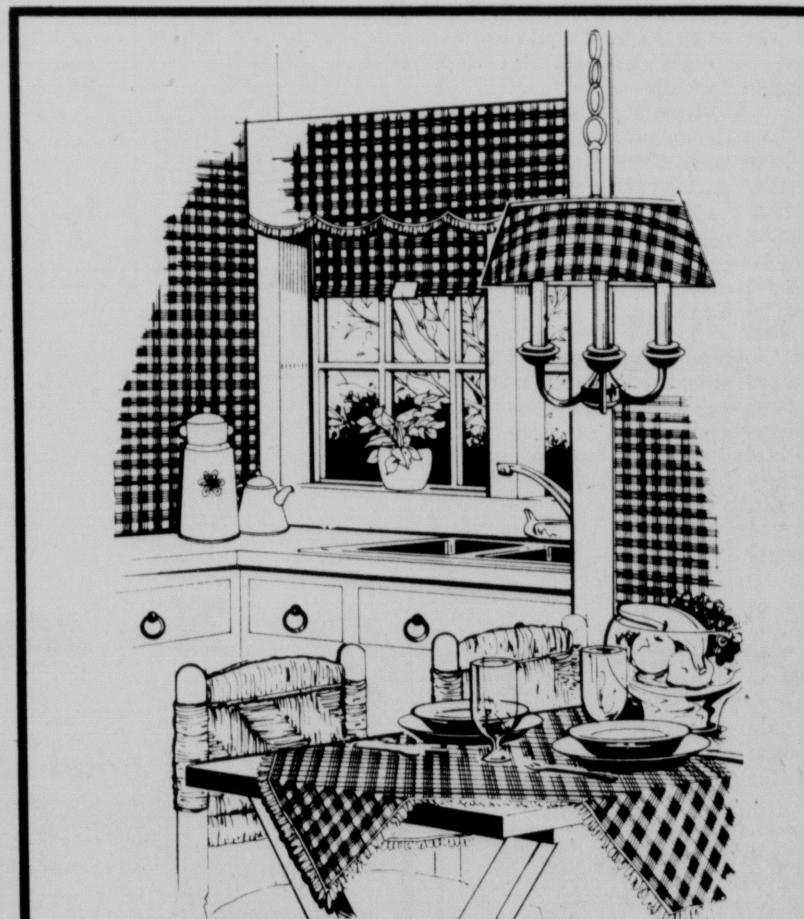

The new, small Circline came into being when a fixture manufacturer wanted to design a wall light for motel rooms, keeping it as small as an incandescent fixture, yet utilizing more economical fluorescent lamps. "Now we see big possibilities for the new, small lamp," Schmies said, "in ceiling, wall and desk lamps, both residential and commercial as well as sign lamps."

And if the new lamp is successful in original equipment applications, what will happen then? "The battle is never won," Schmies said. "Taking the exit

Council On Aging Gives 1977 Budget To Commissioners

Council on Aging representatives Vera Saunders and Bill Smith presented the annual budget for the senior citizens to Pickaway County commissioners Monday.

The total budget this year will be $37,982. Most of the budget will be funded through federal programs, but the Council on Aging representatives noted that some of this assistance is being ended. They asked commissioners to consider providing the funds which will be lost so programs of the senior citizens in Pickaway County will not have to be curtailed.

In the past commissioners have provided $5,600. If the county matches the amount the council on aging expects to lose through federal funding, it would mean an additional $9,100.

"This is the dilemma we run into all the time," Dick T. Tootle, chairman of the board of commissioners told the council on aging representatives.

"The government starts these programs, gets you used to them and then says 'Here you are folks, its all yours.'"

"If the money is available Jan. 1 when we make up the budgets, you will get it, he assured the senior citizens. "But we can't promise it."

In addition to the budget, Mrs. Saunders reported on a new nutrition program for the elderly which will be operated through Pickaway County Community Action Organization (PICCA).

The program will be available to anyone over 60 and will provide them with a balanced noon meal at the site where it is prepared. The federal funds to operate the program are $25,500. Although the meal will be free, a donation will be accepted to help pay for the operation of the program.

PICCA and the senior citizens are currently looking for a ground floor room with a kitchen where the nutritional program can be established.

Commissioners Tootle, L. Robert Liston and Donald Strous offered the building at the old Children's Home Farm for this purpose if a more suitable site in Circleville cannot be found.

Ted Goodman of Weatherby-Goodman, Architects, designers of the proposed senior citizens complex in Logan Elm Village, visited commissioners to discuss the contract for architectural services. Commissioners advised him to contact county Prosecutor Richard Gerhardt.

Greg Bigam, federal programs coordinator for the county commissioners, announced the county has received CETA funds and will now be able to keep all CETA employees on the payroll through Dec. 31. However, he told commissioners a freeze has been placed on new hiring.

One bid from Circleville Heating and Air Condition was submitted to furnish and install furnace and air conditioner for $2,095. The bid will be studied by commissioners before awarding the contract.

"It's something you have to live with," he said. "It's typical of the way original equipment business is done. It doesn't get any easier. Meeting our competition gets a little tougher every year."

Furniture Taken From Apartment

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies are investigating the theft of $489 worth of rented furniture from an Ashville apartment.

The furniture, a living room and dining room suite, were apparently rented from Glick's Furniture Co., Columbus.

Persons who rented the furniture are former tenants of The Pines Apartments, Ashville. Apartment manager Joe List told deputies that the tenants had been evicted.

Viola Diehl, 517 E. Franklin St., told deputies that thieves took a battery from her car while it was parked at the L-K Restaurant.

The battery, valued at $34, was taken between 5:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday.
